CHAZ'S HAIRY SITUATION

Cher's kid IS GETTING MANLIER BY THE DAY

'Chaz is totally proud of his tiny hairs'

THERE's a lot that Chaz Bono will do for love, but he WON'T be shaving his back!

The 44-year-old transgender son of superstar Cher has started to sprout a coat of downy peach-fuzz on his back as the result of the hormones he takes – and he's proud of it. Insiders say Chaz – who was born a female, Chastity – considers the fine hairs an important milestone in the journey to manhood he began in 2008.

"Chaz is totally proud of his tiny hairs," said a source. "It's hard to see them unless you're up close, but he's determined to wear them like a badge of manliness, just like he did when he grew a beard a couple of years ago as the testosterone took hold."

Chaz's superstar mom, Cher

DESPITE SPLITTING WITH FIANCEE Jennifer Elia in late 2011, those close to Chaz say he's happier than he's ever been. He just celebrated nine years of sobriety and he's managed to drop more than 50 pounds through a strict diet and exercise plan. Next on his list? Settling down with a good woman, getting married, and maybe even starting a family!

But she's going to have to be a fan of his back stubble, because so far, he's balked at well-intentioned suggestions to wax or shave it off.

"Chaz knows a lot of women hate men with hairy backs," said the source. "But to him, his hairy back is a sign he's made the transition from female to male, and he's not willing to take it off for anyone."

Paris hooked ON DRUG-CRAZED ROCKERS

PARIS JACKSON has sparked family fears by going nuts over two drugged-out music legends who died tragically, say sources.

Paris' near-fixation with the late rockers Kurt Cobain and Jimi Hendrix is said to be particularly upsetting to her grandmother Katherine.

Michael Jackson

THE FAMILY MATRIARCH has had custody of the 14-year-old wild child and her two brothers since their father Michael's drug overdose death in 2009, and sources say she's now terrified the youngster might plunge into the nightmare world of substance abuse.

Paris has recently been tweeting incessantly about Cobain and Hendrix – who both died at age 27. Hendrix overdosed and drug-ravaged Cobain killed himself with a shotgun.

Both musicians paid homage to drug use in their songs, and in one tweet Paris wrote: "I pledge allegiance to...the rock legends of the world & to the Rebellion, of which we stand, one nation...indivisible, with revenge & justice for all."

Paris has been heard shouting in her school, "Kurt Fing Cobain," and "Jimi Hendrix rules," a family friend said, and her locker is plastered with tributes to the pair.

"While Katherine knows Paris is a good girl, she fears the teen is growing up way too fast and doesn't like her obsessing over those musicians," the family friend said.

Psychiatrist Carole Lieberman, who's not treated Paris but has closely followed the Jackson family, told The ENQUIRER: "Paris has had such a chaotic childhood. Her late father used to make her cover her face, and her mother has had nothing to do with her. These factors have to make her feel abandoned, which is reason enough for any child to be more vulnerable to temptations of drugs and rebellion.

"It's well-known that Michael battled substance abuse for years, and Paris could have inherited his genetic and psychological predisposition to drug addiction. No one wants to see her suffer the same fate as her father."

The pop tart, with son Jayden, made a futile attempt to keep her bare derriere covered on March 10 in Calabasas, Calif.

Brit later changed into sweatpants and a top

BRITNEY SPEARS' booty is about to get her banned from her sons' soccer games!

The "Scream & Shout" singer caused an uproar at a match in Calabasas, Calif., on March 10 when she bared her naked bottom in front of dozens of young kids and their horrified parents. No stranger to skimpy attire and eye-popping wardrobe malfunctions, the 31-year-old wore a see-through, flowing sundress – and no undergarments – as she cheered on Jayden, 7, and Sean, 6, from the sidelines. With one gust of wind, the flimsy dress became an X-rated spectacle at the G-rated family event.

Now the other moms have banded together to let Britney know she needs to cover up!

One irritated onlooker told The ENQUIRER: "We're used to seeing Britney show up to games without a bra, but when she came in a see-though dress without a stitch of underwear on...and the wind was blowing it up so all the kids could see her butt...it's just the last straw.

> 'She's gone too far this time, and we've all had enough'

"HOW DO YOU EXPLAIN TO A 7-YEAR-OLD WHY ONE of the biggest stars in the world is flashing her bare bottom at a children's soccer game? It's inexcusable."

The former "X Factor" judge – who's been dating researcher David Lucado since splitting with former agent/fiance Jason Trawick – didn't even notice her cringe-worthy fashion faux pas until she felt an updraft. Buttocks bared by the breeze, Brit made a half-hearted attempt to hold the back of her skirt in place. She later left the game and returned more modestly dressed in a pair of sweatpants and pullover top.

"All the moms on her boys' team are livid that she flashed her bottom on the field, and it's attracting a lot of negative attention to what should be a clean family event for these kids," continued the source. "She's a parent who's supposed to be watching her kids play soccer but comes to the games dressed like a sexy stripper!

"It's inexcusable, and quite honestly, she should apologize to the other parents on the team."

The "Toxic" singer is notorious for flashing her private parts, but this time, her booty show may get her banned from her kids' soccer games, according to the source. "We don't want to embarrass Britney by singling her out, but we need to have a talk about what is and what is not appropriate to wear to future games," added the source.

"We want to make sure this doesn't happen again. She's gone too far this time, and we've all had enough."

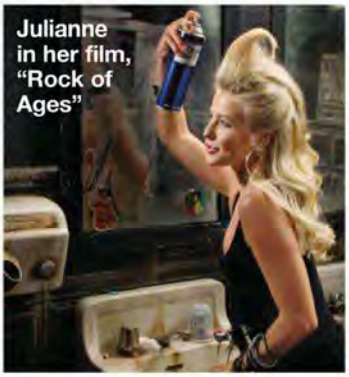
SHOCKING REASON THEY SPLIT

RYAN SEACREST dumped Julianne Hough because of her wild partying and boozing!

The head-turning couple first hooked up in 2010 and have struggled to keep their romance on track, in part due to their busy careers. But Ryan, 38, has finally grown to realize that Julianne is too much of a party girl for him – and sources say that's the REAL reason he gave the 24-year-old blonde beauty her walking papers in mid-March.

"RYAN TRIED HIS BEST TO KEEP UP with Julianne, but in the end he just couldn't," said a source. "He's older, already established and set in his ways, and he was getting tired of telling her to lay off the alcohol and stop overindulging.



Julianne in her film, "Rock of Ages"

"They constantly fought because he wanted her to slow down and she wanted him to lighten up and enjoy life more."

According to sources, it wasn't unusual for the "American Idol" host to go home early and let the former "Dancing with the Stars" pro stay out with her friends until the sun came up.

And Ryan was said to be pushed to the edge last summer when Julianne was photographed leaving the London nightclub Roka "wobbly and bleary-eyed" after the premiere of her film "Rock of Ages." The dancer-turned-actress was spilling out of her dress, unsteady on her feet and had to be escorted out of the club and helped into a car.

More recently, Julianne shocked onlookers at a Jan. 13 Golden Globes bash when she danced the night away even after ripping her designer gown up to her thighs.

"RYAN SAT JULIANNE DOWN and told her he couldn't stand to watch her throw her life away," said the source. "He cares for her deeply, but he felt like she was forcing him to act more like a parent than a husband-to-be."

EASTWOOD WEDDING DISASTER!

Clint's feud with wife wrecks DAUGHTER ALISON'S BIG DAY

CLINT EASTWOOD appeared frosty with his wife Dina Ruiz at his daughter Alison's wedding, a source says.

Eyewitnesses at Alison's intimate March 15 nuptials told The ENQUIRER that the 82-year-old "Dirty Harry" star looked like he was far from the beaming father of the bride, and did not appear to even acknowledge his wife, according to one source who was at the wedding.

"CLINT WAS NOTICEABLY SUBDUED and I did not see him speak much to Dina," a source said after Alison wed "Chainsaw Gang" reality star sculptor Stacy Poitras at the Saddle Peak Lodge restaurant in Calabasas, Calif.

"Alison's mother Maggie Johnson was over the moon, but in my opinion, Clint did not look happy."

The Oscar-winning Hollywood legend looked frail in a simple suit, but 47-year-old Dina nearly upstaged the bride in a vavoomy red gown, said the source.

Alison, a 40-year-old actress and model, wore a 1930s-era Hollywood-style dress and carried a white and lavender bouquet. The groom, 45, left his chain saw at home in favor of a casual gray suit

ENQUIRER EXCLUSIVE

Hard-partying Julianne TOO WILD FOR RYAN

'Idol' host just couldn't keep up with sexy hoofer!

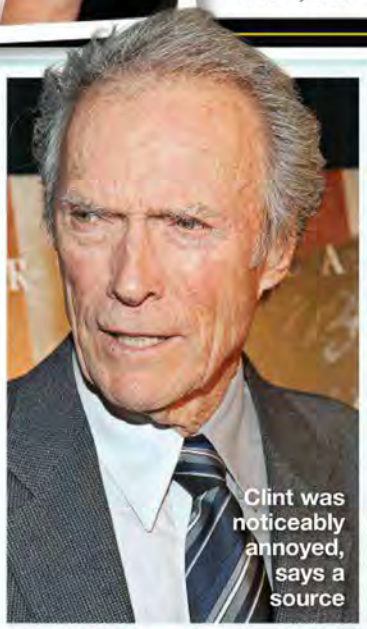
Ryan Seacrest felt Julianne was forcing him to act more like a parent than a fiance, says a source

Two days after officially confirming her split with Ryan, Julianne showed no ill effects from the breakup, telling fans via her Instagram page that she was on a beach outing with girlfriends.

And on March 17, she was courtside with pals Kaley Cuoco, Briana Cuoco and Nina Dobrev, cheering on the Los Angeles Lakers basketball team at a home game in the Staples Center.

"Ryan's been in this town long enough to see actresses throw everything away because they couldn't handle the pressures of fame and fortune," added the source. "Julianne's dreams are all coming true and she wants everything that comes with her celebrity. Ryan just hopes she doesn't let Hollywood get the best of her."

A rep for Julianne denies that the couple split over her alleged partying.



Clint was noticeably annoyed, says a source with a purple boutonniere.

Instead of bridesmaids, the couple's three dogs served as unofficial "ring bearers."

After Eastwood walked his daughter down the aisle at the outdoor ceremony, the 20 family members and guests gathered in a private area inside the restaurant, the source said.

"Clint retreated to the far end of the table," said the source.

"HE AND DINA SAT TOGETHER, BUT they didn't look happy and barely interacted with each other. Clint mainly kept to himself."

As The ENQUIRER has exclusively reported, former TV news anchor Dina had moved out of the couple's California home after their 16-year marriage exploded over her reality TV show, "Mrs. Eastwood & Company," which sources say her husband despised.

Until his daughter's wedding, Eastwood hadn't been photographed with Dina since November 2011.

Since their split, Dina has been living in Texas and Hawaii, while Eastwood spends his time at the family's homes in Carmel, Calif., and Hawaii, sources say.

The two were careful to avoid each other at their Maui home – with the "Unforgiven" star arriving after Dina and their daughter Morgan, 16, left in October.

At the wedding, Eastwood sipped on what looked like a glass of whiskey and barely ate, said the source.

"Clint played with his food a bit and tried to be polite to guests, but otherwise he kept a very low profile," said the source.

"In fact, when guests at the end of the table started knocking back too much red wine and getting a bit rowdy, Clint was noticeably annoyed."

Woombie inventor Karen Barski

A baby comfortably swaddled in Karen's clever creation

BLANKET WORTH MILLION$

KAREN BARSKI couldn't find the right baby blanket for her newborn daughter, so she sewed her own – and now her "Woombie" is a million-dollar business!

"When I started, I never in my wildest dreams thought it would take off like it has," the 41-year-old mother of five told The ENQUIRER. "We're in thousands of stores worldwide, and we've been picked up by online giants Amazon and Babies 'R' Us."

KAREN CREDITS HER DAUGHTER Bella, now 6, with starting her on the road to entrepreneurship.

"Bella had trouble sleeping in her swaddle," recalled Karen, who lives with her husband, Stash, and children Morgan, 17, Kaia, 10, Bella, 6, and 4-year-old twins, Bryce and Brody – in Trumbull, Conn.

"She was constantly unraveling it. Time and time again I'd find the blanket unwrapped and over her face, which was very scary."

After trying every swaddle that she could find, Karen decided to make her own and pulled out her grandmother's old sewing machine.

Karen and her family. Daughter Bella (circled) inspired the Woombie

"It took me several weeks, but eventually I came up with a peanut-shaped swaddle that allowed Bella to move her arms and legs," Karen said. "I used a stretchy material and put a zipper in it, which no one had ever done. I tried it and, low and behold, it worked!"

Karen made the swaddles for members of her mommy group, then for friends and, as word spread, for friends of friends.

"I started thinking, hey, this could be a great business," she said.

Karen began producing the Woombies in her dining room with her husband's help.

She sold the first one in February 2007 for $26.99. She sold 2,000 the next year, and 10,000 the year after that. Sales continued to soar as production moved to the family basement and then spread into the garage.

Woombie sales have since hit 500,000 a year. They're now manufactured in China and distributed from a 10,000-square-foot warehouse that was once a Singer sewing machine factory.

Karen gave up her nursing career 18 months ago to focus on the business, and she's mastered the ability to juggle motherhood and entrepreneurship.

"I'm really task-oriented," she said. "I work hard when I'm working. But then I focus on the kids."

TIMBERLAKE'S A QUITTER!

Singer has hypnotherapy to help him stop smoking

SMOKIN' hot Justin Timberlake is so determined to snuff out his cigarette habit that he's taking buddy Ben Affleck's advice to be put into a trance.

The Grammy-winning performer promised his wife Jessica Biel he'd end his dangerous addiction. But after failing miserably, he's decided to try hypnotherapy, say sources.

"Justin smokes when he's stressed out, and he caved under the pressure of getting his new album together and preparing for a big tour," revealed an insider.

"HE SWORE TO JESSICA THAT after their wedding last year, he'd quit. He's determined to honor his promise, so he's working with a hypnotist to reduce his cravings."

The pop star is no stranger to the mind-bending therapy. When he dumped Britney Spears in 2002, he reportedly called hypnotist-to-the-stars Paul McKenna to help him deal with his mixed emotions about the bustup. This time around, Justin – who can be seen puffing on a cigarette and cigar in his new "Suit & Tie" music video – turned to Ben Affleck for advice, his co-star in the upcoming thriller "Runner, Runner."

Justin with gorgeous wife Jessica Biel

As The ENQUIRER revealed, Ben extinguished his own smoking habit with help from a hypnotist after his wife Jennifer Garner pitched a fit when he relapsed while filming "Argo."

The celebrated actor-director recommended that Timberlake also see a hypnotist, and now it appears Justin is getting off his "butt" just in time, said the source. "Jessica wants him to quit smoking before they have kids. She wouldn't tolerate him lighting up in front of her if she's pregnant."

"AMERICAN IDOL" frontrunner Kree Harrison endured a double dose of tragedy before soaring to the top of the heap on the hit FOX show.

When Kree was just 11 years old, her beloved father perished in a fiery plane crash. And just eight years later, her mom was killed in a car accident.

But somehow the heartbreak gave the 22-year-old singer the grit and determination to make a success of her life, her proud grandmother Beverly Mire told The ENQUIRER in an exclusive interview.

"KREE'S FATHER CLINT DIED IN October 2001 while on an electrical contracting job overseas," she said. "His plane hit bad weather and crashed into the Mediterranean. His body was never found. The only thing recovered was some clothing and the wing of the plane.

"The news hit Kree like a ton of bricks. She was daddy's little girl and loved him more than anything."

Then, in September 2009, Kree was hit with another crushing blow. On her late father's birthday, her 47-year-old mother Kathy died in a horrific car crash.

Kree's mom was driving home after spending the day with her sister when a pickup truck made an "unsafe turn" and slammed into her SUV on a two-lane rural road in Orange County, Texas.

"After her mom died, Kree was in a state of total shock," recalled Beverly, 73. "She went to Nashville to live with her older sister Laci Bruce."

Despite Kree's hardships, Beverly says she knew her granddaughter would make it big ever since the youngster started singing in church. Her first break came when she was chosen to perform on the "Rosie O'Donnell Show" at age 8, and she made four appearances on the gabfest by the time she was 12.

After her mom died, Kree landed a recording contract and channeled her grief by co-writing the deeply moving song, "You Would've Wanted It That Way."

RIHANNA has found a way to get back at her two-timing bad-boy beau Chris Brown – by hooking up with comedian Dane Cook!

The gorgeous "We Found Love" singer and the quirky comic have been pals for years, but their friendship has heated up in recent months because Rihanna wants to show Chris that she's still a hot commodity, say sources.

Rihanna met Dane after attending one of his shows at L.A.'s Laugh Factory, and they hit it off so well that RiRi now tries to catch his act whenever she's in town, the sources add.

"They hang out in Dane's dressing room and sometimes he goes back to her Pacific Palisades home to party," revealed an insider. "They flirt like crazy, and Dane regularly sends Rihanna flowers and gushy e-mails.

"RIHANNA'S FRIENDS ALL THINK they're carrying on a romance, but she's very secretive about it. She wants to keep everyone guessing, especially Chris."

Rihanna, 25, and Chris, 23, began dating in early 2008 but split a year later after he savagely beat her during an argument in his car. Chris was charged with felony assault.

Kree also had the support of her sister Laci, who encouraged the golden-voiced brunette to reach for the stars at the "Idol" tryouts. It turned out to be one of the best decisions of her life.

Her stunning performance of "Up to the Mountain" blew away the judges and secured her a spot in "Idol's" Top 20.

RIHANNA REVENGE ON CHEATING CHRIS

Bad boy Brown GOES NUTS as sexpot flirts with comic Cook

Rihanna then stunned fans in August when she admitted during an interview that Chris is "the love of her life." By the end of 2012, the pair had reunited, but at the time Chris was still involved with aspiring fashion designer Karrueche Tran.

"Rihanna was hurt by Chris constantly cheating on her after they reconnected," the insider continued. "He kept running back to Karrueche and also picking up groupies in nightclubs."

Meanwhile, Dane "makes her laugh and always leaves her feeling upbeat and good about herself."

Chris suspects there may be something going on between Rihanna and Dane, 41, and the two have gotten into "horrible screaming matches" about it. But Rihanna's loving every minute of it, says the source.

"The only thing she likes more than male attention is drama. She loves having Dane and Chris chasing after her at the same time."

■ FISTS OF FURY DEPT.: In a moment of sheer terror during filming of her as-yet-untitled crime flick, JENNIFER ANISTON suddenly got knocked to the ground by an accidental wild punch that left her dazed and suffering! As cameras rolled during an action scene, Jen – who plays the kidnapped wife of a millionaire – was feverishly swinging her designer handbag to break up a fight between two men who'd abducted her, played by JOHN HAWKES and rapper MOS DEF. But Beauty got a bit too close to the action, and – as one actor swung at the other – POW! A wayward punch slammed Jen's jaw and she hit the deck hard! Badly shaken but conscious, she was helped to her dressing room and told the scene would be scrapped for that day. But an hour later, Jen bravely insisted on returning to the set. Hawkes and Def started apologizing profusely, but she just grinned and admitted: "Hey, I'm the one who messed up, not you guys!" After giving the cockpit an "expert" once-over, Inspector Busey walked through the plane making sure there weren't any "cracks" – and finally sat down in his first-class seat, happily braying to fellow fliers that he'd personally checked the aircraft and everything was "A-OK." On Cloud Nine, the Wizard of Odd serenaded First Class with Buddy Holly hits until takeoff, then delighted everyone by finally shutting up and dozing off!

Said my source, Onda Settalot: "The cards revealed Lindsay would face more financial woes – and that the people around her are not to be trusted. Worse, there was no indication her career would improve – and even her personal freedom was about to be compromised!" Suddenly exploding in sheer fury, Lindsay swept her arm across the table, scattering the cards to the floor as she screamed: "This is a total HOAX! You're making this s up!" Shocked, the woman tried to apologize, saying she had no power over what the cards revealed, but Lindsay stormed off – and moments later, an executive assistant showed up and gave a new reading on the future: Tarot card reading will NOT be allowed!

■ Two weeks ago, I reported exclusively that ex-Prez BILL CLINTON tops a secret short list of hosts that Oscar honchos are mulling for next year, but... NEWSFLASH: Back off, Bill, because Oscar's suddenly swooning over a brand-new stud-muffin I also told you was on that list – JUSTIN TIMBERLAKE, who just hosted "Saturday Night Live" and scored its highest ratings in 14 months! "The Oscar honchos are in discussions with Mr. SexyBack already," reports an inside source. "Getting Justin to host would now be a huge coup for the Oscars. He'd been considered before, but they always thought he was too young and not seasoned enough. Now, he's the frontrunner for the job – after showing he knows how to sing, dance, act, host, and improvise on the spot. He'd be a huge draw – epitomizing the new Hollywood, but doing it in such a classy way that he won't put off the older crowd." Stay tuned!

■ A workout at the swanky Peninsula Beverly Hills hotel gym abruptly turned into a totally Les Miserables experience for muscular HUGH JACKMAN, who started huffing and puffing through a high-intensity workout – but was stunned when every sweaty female present quickly shuffled off to the changing rooms. Pouted gob-smacked Hugh to a workout buddy: "Do I stink...or what? This is NOT the usual effect I have on women, mate!" But Hugh grinned again when the ladies re-emerged – sporting fresh war paint, newly-combed hair... and oo-la-la perfumes. Said My GymSpy: "Turns out the women had left because they wanted to get fluffed up and attractive for Hugh. He got the biggest smile on his face you've ever seen when the ladies eventually returned, all glammed up. He was not only very relieved, but very, very flattered."

■ BOLDFACE TWEETS DEPT.: Tough week for the ladies! PINK tweeted hilariously about baby girl Willow @Pink: "Willz hit me in my temple w a light saber so hard I saw stars. HUGS & KISSES: Rosie O'Donnell, who's just become a mom for the fifth time, enjoys a loving snuggle in New York with adopted newborn daughter Dakota.

■ WHO CUT THE CHEESE? "2 Broke Girls" co-stars KAT DENNINGS and BETH BEHRS love playing practical jokes on each other, but Beth totally crossed the line – hiding several unwrapped, super-smelly French cheeses (including a stinky Limburger!) in Kat's dressing room just before the weekend! When Kat strolled back through her door on Monday morning – with Beth right behind her – she damn near lost her breakfast and screamed: "What the hell's that smell!!" Beth, giggling madly, loved that she'd gotten even with Kat – who'd made fun of the cheeses she'd gotten as a gift. But miffed Kat quickly raised a new stink with producers, demanding: "Get me another dressing room – I'm not going in there until everything's been disinfected!" It took two days for the stench of Beth's cheesy gag to dissipate! (Warning, grrl: Kat's whispering to cast and crew that payback's a bitch!)

Whipping off his helmet, the guy protested: "Hey, I've parked here many times!"... and the surprised guard abruptly realized he'd been chewing out famed movie hunk ORLANDO BLOOM! TIGER WOODS PREGNANCY DRAMA

Baby bombshell behind golfer's decision to go public with Lindsey Vonn

MARCH 18, 2013

Both Tiger and Lindsey posted photos of themselves together and announced their relationship. Far left, Elin with kids Sam and Charlie

TIGER WOODS wanted to get back together with his ex-wife Elin Nordegren and have more children – but when she nixed that plan, the horndog golfer publicly admitted that he's dating Olympic skiing champ Lindsey Vonn.

And he's already gushing about what great babies they'll make!

A source confided to The ENQUIRER: "Tiger told Lindsey, 'I want to have children with you – twins if we get lucky. Imagine what world-class athletes they'd be!' And Lindsey's all for it, even if it means hanging up her skis for a while."

That's the big secret behind Tiger's surprise announcement about his romance with the sexy alpine skier after spending months trying to iron out a pricey prenup deal with Elin.

"Tiger felt that if he reunited with Elin, he could get back on top – both personally and professionally," a source revealed.

"BUT HE WANTS MORE CHILDREN, AND Elin doesn't – it's that simple. When their reunion discussions broke down, Tiger decided to let the world know that he's dating Lindsey."

Lindsey, a 28-year-old Elin look-alike, posted photos of herself and Tiger on her Facebook page and wrote: "Our relationship evolved from a friendship into something more over these past few months, and it has made me very happy."

Tiger followed by posting the same photos on his Facebook page, and wrote: "Over the last few months, we have become very close and are now dating."

The links legend's five-year marriage to Elin, 33, imploded in 2009 when The ENQUIRER revealed that he was having an affair with New York party girl Rachel Uchitel. After that, a parade of bimbos told of their affairs with Tiger.

The cheating golfer, 37, shelled out a reported $110 million to divorce Elin, and kissed off millions more in lost endorsement deals while his golf game collapsed.

But as The ENQUIRER reported, Tiger offered to sign a $250 million no-cheat prenup if Elin would remarry him. She countered by demanding $350 million, which is more than half of Tiger's fortune.

The couple – who have daughter Sam, 5, and son Charlie, 4, together – lived in a trial marriage while negotiating the deal, and sources say Tiger desperately wanted to add to their family. But Elin, who's been dating 55-year-old billionaire coal magnate Chris Cline, ultimately decided against rekindling her romance with Tiger, said the source.

"Elin felt she could never trust Tiger again," said the source. "Besides that, she considers him juvenile and doesn't like the public hoopla that surrounds him.

Lindsey, moments before her injury on Feb. 5

"She says Chris is more mature than Tiger, and she loves that he prefers to live his life out of the spotlight."

During his prenup negotiations with Elin, Tiger dated Lindsey on the down-low. She's had plenty of time for romance. In February, she broke a leg and tore ligaments after a high-speed fall put her out of action for the rest of the year.

"When Tiger's golf game was in a slump, he was afraid Lindsey's success would outshine him," said the source. "But he's won two tournaments this year, and feels that they're on more equal footing.

"Now that they're out as a couple, friends are wondering if an engagement announcement is on the horizon!"

Pregnant Kim's CHEATING NIGHTMARE!

The booty-ful reality star is stressed out, says a source

Reality beauty terrified hard-partying KANYE COULD FOOL AROUND

Kanye hung out in Paris with stars like Adrien Brody

FIVE-months-pregnant Kim Kardashian has packed on 65 pounds, and sources say her romance with baby daddy Kanye West is over!

Pals of the 5-foot-3 reality star say Kim's enormous weight gain has played a major role in her perception of Kanye's lack of interest, and now Kim is falling apart after learning about his flirtatious behavior in Paris.

"KIM AND KANYE'S RELATIONSHIP used to be all about soft music, candlelight dinners and romantic nights together. But now that Kim has put on such a large amount of weight, Kanye seems to be busier with his music schedule than ever – and Kim doesn't think it's a coincidence," revealed an insider.

"Their romantic relationship has become more like a friendship, and Kim thinks he sees her more as a buddy than a lover. Kim's no dummy, I think she knows that if she's not giving him what he wants, he'll get it elsewhere."

Kim's fears exploded March 5 when Kanye – in Paris to record a new album – partied with models and Hollywood beauties Amanda Seyfried, Jessica Chastain and Jessica Alba. The very next day, Kim rushed in tears to her doctor, fearing a miscarriage.

Physicians warned the beauty to cut back on her intense travel schedule and workload and ease up her excessive exercise routines.

Kim's stress contributed to her recent headline-making miscarriage scare, friends now believe.

"Kim is completely down on herself over the massive amount of weight

New wife won't get hands on LEGEND'S $650M FORTUNE

Michael Jordan scores slam

MARRIAGE won't dent Michael Jordan's bank account!

His fiancee Yvette Prieto has signed a prenuptial agreement that protects nearly all of Air Jordan's estimated $650 million fortune, sources told The ENQUIRER.

After shelling out $168 million to divorce his first wife Juanita, the basketball legend, 50, made one thing clear to his 35-year-old fiancee, sources say – no signature, no wedding!

"MICHAEL LOVES YVETTE, BUT HE WON'T let that interfere with his common sense – and his money – like it did before," a family friend told The ENQUIRER.

The couple will reportedly wed on April 27, and according to their prenup, each will keep the assets they bring to the marriage. For six-time NBA champ Michael, that's reportedly $650 million, including properties in Illinois and Florida, plus annual endorsement deals worth $80 million with Jordan Brand Nike shoes, Gatorade, Hanes, Upper Deck, Five Star Fragrances and Presbyterian Healthcare.

Ex-wife Juanita

If they divorce, Cuban-born Yvette will receive $1 million for each year they were married, and $5 million per year if the union lasts 10 years, an insider revealed. "Yvette is OK with the agreement," said the family insider. "She feels they have a strong relationship. She can't imagine that they'd ever split up!"

While the former Chicago Bulls

she's put on in such a short time," revealed the insider. "And the more she worries, the more she eats.

"She's concerned about Kanye cheating, and his disinterested and distracted attitude isn't helping."

Meanwhile, Kim's mom Kris Jenner is reportedly furious that Kanye, 35, didn't return to Los Angeles to comfort the expectant mom.

"Kim and Kanye really haven't spent much alone time together," said an insider. "He told her he needs space to let his creative juices flow. But now Kim suspects he's doing more than working on his new album. More than once, she's called and texted him frantically after midnight, trying to track him down.

"KIM HAS ALSO HEARD THROUGH the grapevine that Kanye is smitten with model Cara Delevingne, and that Cara and Kanye were hooking up when she wasn't around.

"It's also not helping that Kim and Kanye are bickering over her never-ending divorce drama with (estranged husband) Kris Humphries."

As a result of all the pressure, Kim, 32, has taken to emotional binge eating, said the source. "She gorges on candy-covered frozen yogurt, cookies and cheese-drenched French fries.

"It hit home big-time when Kanye poked fun, saying she looked like she really enjoys eating for two.

"Kim feels terribly unattractive, and as her weight explodes she's getting more clingy and needy – which only turns off Kanye more."

dunk prenup

superstar had no prenup when he married first wife Juanita Vanoy in 1989, the couple did have a post-nuptial agreement. Their marriage lasted 17 years and Juanita reportedly walked away with $168 million, their Chicago-area mansion and custody of their three children.

At the time, Jordan's payout was reportedly the largest celebrity divorce deal in history.

"Yvette knows Michael was once a serial cheater, just like his buddy Tiger Woods," added the source. "But she believes Michael has sown his wild oats and only has eyes for her now. They're both very happy and looking forward to their wedding."

DUCHOVNY DUCKS IN...

"X-Files" mystery! We caught David Duchovny on March 11 sneaking out of a store front in New York City that led to two upstairs businesses – an Oriental acupuncture/massage parlor that offers back and foot rubs, and the Silky Nail salon offering, among other services, a Brazilian bikini wax and an eyelash tint. So we were wondering which business David actually visited and also what the "Californication" star was carrying in those bulging pants pockets.

'Bachelor' Sean & Catherine FIGHTING ALREADY!

Her jealous rage over his sexy 'DWTS' dance partner

PRETTY Seattle native Catherine Giudici battled a houseful of women to win the final rose – and a marriage proposal – from "Bachelor" Sean Lowe, but she can't let down her guard just yet!

Insiders say she's steaming that her handsome honey has been paired with blonde bombshell Peta Murgatroyd on the new season of "Dancing with the Stars"!

JILTED: Damian Whitewood

ALTHOUGH THE "Bachelor" finale just aired on March 11, Sean actually proposed to Catherine in November, when the ABC show was taped at the Pa Sak Tong Villa in Northern Thailand.

"Catherine thought all her romantic problems would be solved once she received the final rose from Sean," said a source. "But then the network threw her a curve when she was told that Sean was going to dance with Peta.

"She's furious! The last thing she wants is Peta cozying up to her man."

Regular followers of "DWTS" will have noticed that there were only 11 couples instead of the usual 12 announced at the cast reveal on "Good Morning America" in February. But the network confirmed that Sean and Peta would fill that last spot the day after the "Bachelor" finale aired.

"Catherine is fit to be tied," said the source. "The last person she wants her fiance to be doing a passionate tango with is Peta!"

Orlando's SICK OF WIFE'S BOOBS

He tells model Miranda TO COVER UP NOW SHE'S A MOM

ORLANDO BLOOM has had enough of wife Miranda Kerr's boobs!

The "Hobbit" star has told the gorgeous Victoria's Secret model to quit posting provocative pictures of herself online – because their 2-year-old son, Flynn, has started pointing out his mom's "boobies" every time he sees a topless photo of her!

The feud about the nudie photos has been brewing for some time, say insiders, but the situation came to a head in mid-March after the blue-eyed beauty posted a picture of herself baring her breasts on Instagram.

"ORLANDO'S BEEN BITING his tongue over this for a while, but it's now getting to be too much," an insider told The ENQUIRER. "He understands that in the past Miranda had to get naked for photo shoots, because as a lingerie model, it was part of the job. But he is hoping that now that she's older and a mother, she will slowly start phasing out of posing topless."

Miranda, 29, was caught off-guard by her 36-year-old husband's demands, and told Orlando that she's trying to "build her-

"Catherine's worried sick that Peta might try to waltz her way into Sean's heart!"

Peta, 26, and Maks, 33, split in February after 10 months of dating.

AS THE ENQUIRER reported in early August, the steamy romance blindsided Peta's former boyfriend and fellow Aussie Damian Whitewood. Peta and Damian, a pro dancer who appeared on Season 10 of the hit dance contest, had been together for five years before she coldly dumped him for Maks.

"Because of Peta's past, Catherine's afraid that nothing would stop her from trying to worm her way into Sean's heart," added the source. "That's brought out the green-eyed monster in her."

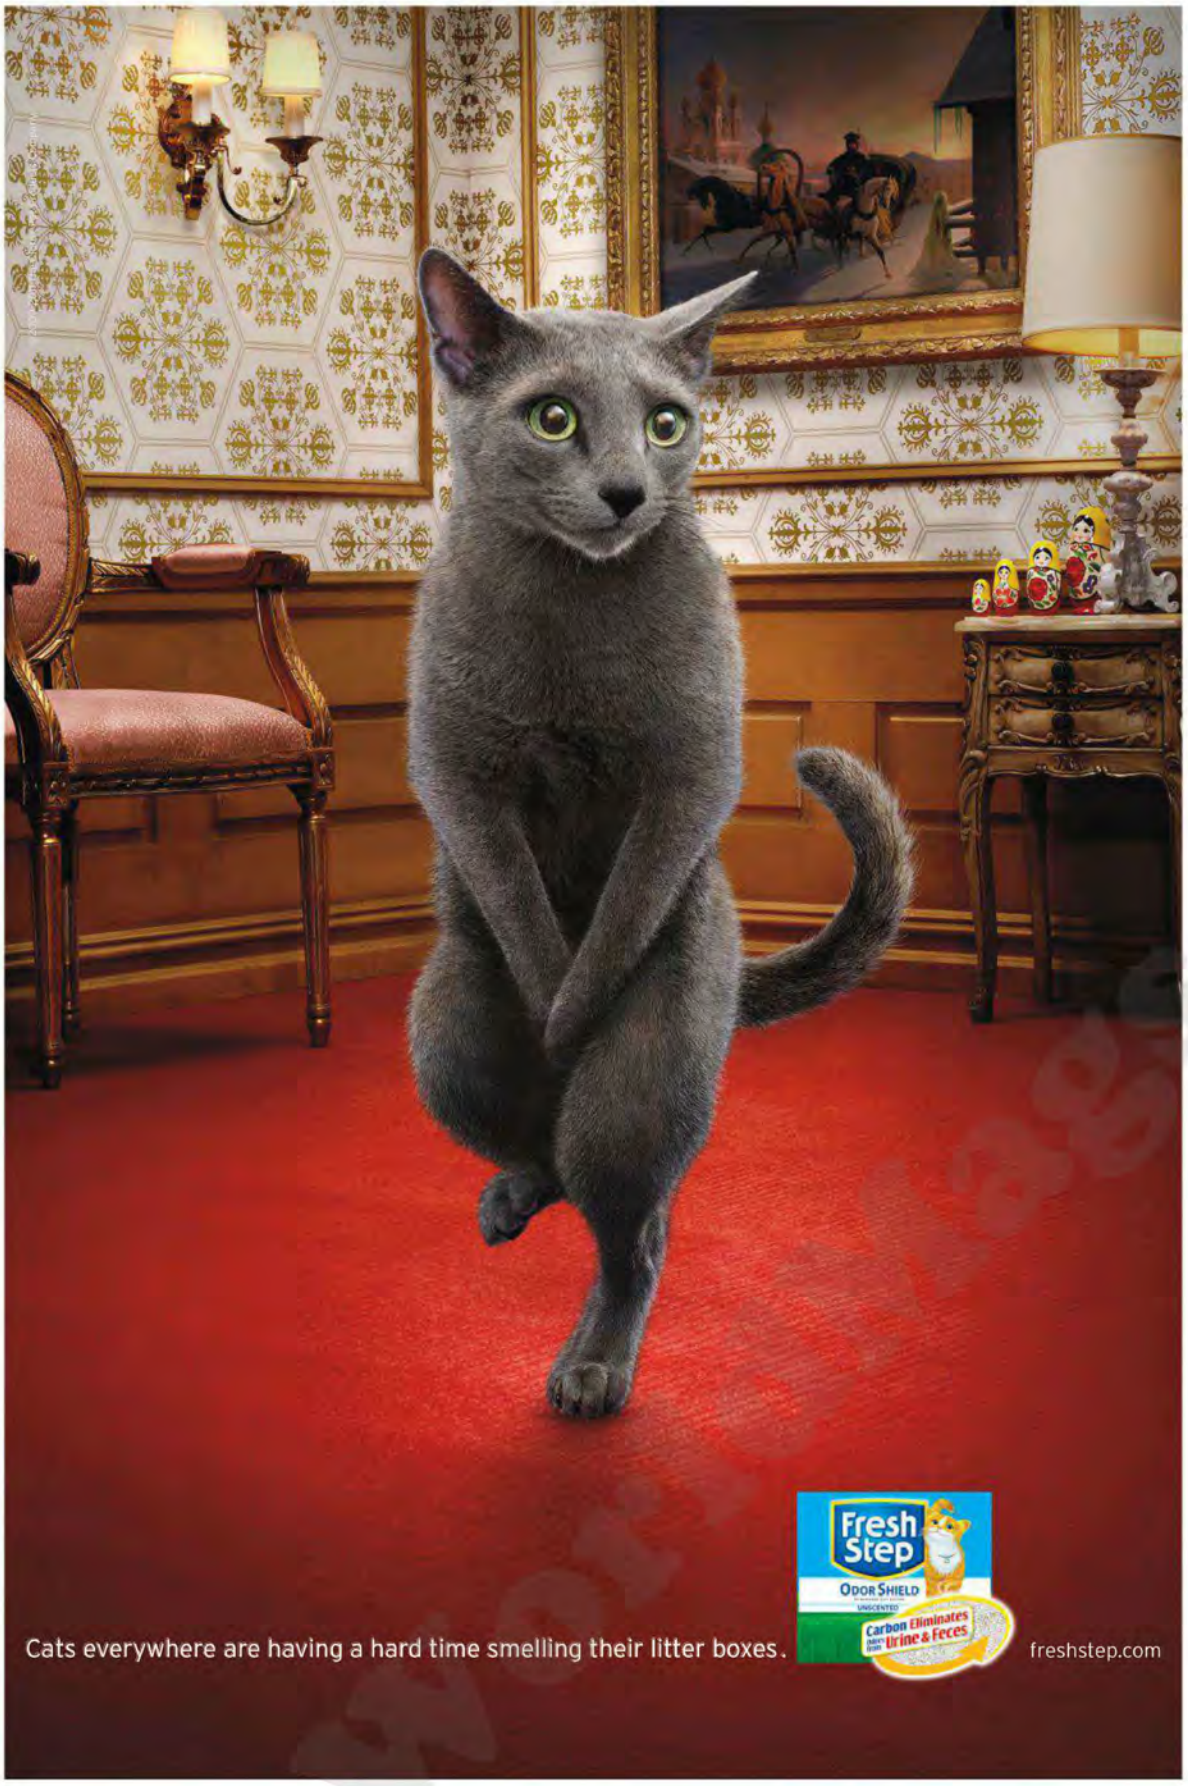
Being naked is nothing new for Australian-born Miranda – and she's spoken publicly about her love of running around her home in the buff.

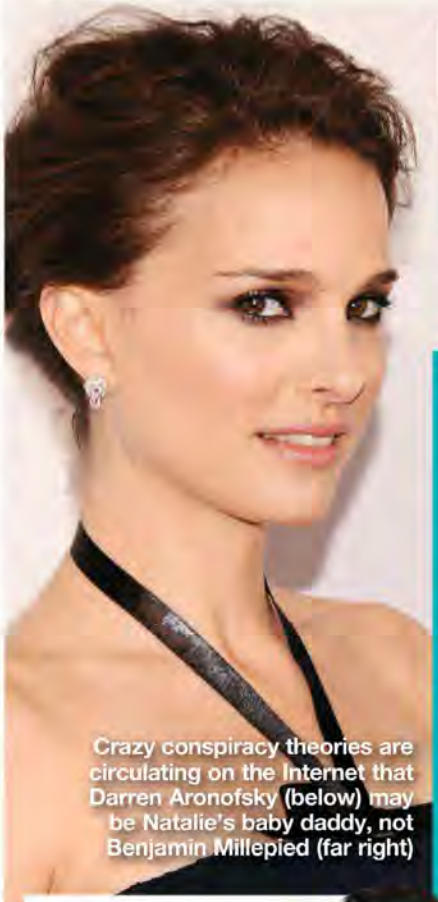
"Orlando doesn't mind that she loves being naked around the house," the insider added. "He just wants her to keep some clothing on for the Internet gawkers!"

What Miranda will be wearing, for a while at least, is a neck brace. She was injured March 11 when a car slammed into her vehicle on an L.A. freeway.



Natalie Portman LOVE CHILD BOMBSHELL

Incredible rumors flying that hubby is NOT the father of her baby



Crazy conspiracy theories are circulating on the Internet that Darren Aronofsky (below) may be Natalie's baby daddy, not Benjamin Millepied (far right)

HUSBAND

Baby Aleph

MOVIE DIRECTOR

NATALIE PORTMAN's 7-month-old marriage to dancer Benjamin Millepied is being rocked by whispers of a humiliating paternity scandal!

The 31-year-old "Black Swan" star is reeling from vicious rumors that she had an affair with the movie's director Darren Aronofsky and that HE is the real father of her 19-month-old son, Aleph – not her husband!

AS THE PHOTOS SHOW, THE ginger-haired tyke bears little resemblance to Benjamin, 35, whose name is listed as the father on little Aleph's birth certificate.

Conspiracy theorists have popped up all around the Internet, questioning the baby's paternity and speculating that the alleged affair caused the breakup of Aronofsky's long-term relationship with actress Rachel Weisz, with whom he has a 6-year-old son.

While Natalie and Benjamin are refusing to acknowledge the baby-daddy rumors publicly, the source says that behind closed doors, Natalie is a wreck.

"The talk has been eating away at her," said a source. "Only she knows the truth...and she's not talking."

According to the source, rumors about the "fling" were running rampant throughout Hollywood during the filming of "Black Swan."

"Everyone was whispering behind their backs," the source continued. "The story went that Benjamin, who choreographed and danced in the film, agreed to become Natalie's boyfriend to help cover up the affair.

"He is a notorious opportunist, schmoozer, and social climber.

"People say he's just using Natalie to increase his own fame and advance his career."

IN THE MEANTIME, NATALIE'S friends believe her stress is only going to increase now that Benjamin has accepted a job overseas as the director of dance at the Paris Opera Ballet.

"That means he'll be spending all his time in France starting in October," added the source. "Natalie is going to have to make a tough decision. Does she give up her Hollywood career to move to Paris or face the pressures of a long-distance relationship?" by MICHAEL GLYNN

MIRANDA LAMBERT's neighbors in the tiny town of Tishomingo, Okla., say the fiery country star is nothing but a big bully – and one woman even claims Miranda threatened to punch her lights out over a real estate dispute!

Melanie Peden, who recently opened an antique shop just two doors down from Miranda's boutique, The Pink Pistol, says she invited the 29-year-old singer to check out her new business on March 5, just a few days before the grand opening.

The "Mama's Broken Heart" singer accepted, but Melanie – whose shop is called the Two Doors Down Junktique – says she was blown away by Miranda's bad behavior.

"She just walked around the place scowling at everything and finally blurted out that I stole this property from her," Melanie, 48, told The ENQUIRER.

"I knew she was inquiring about this property – FOUR YEARS AGO – but she never had a contract with a realtor. I was shocked when she became so angry with me for buying it so many years later."

MELANIE SAYS SHE TRIED TO reason with the 5-foot-4 Grammy winner, but her efforts proved futile.

"She had a complete meltdown and threatened to 'punch me in the mouth' if I kept talking," Melanie recalled. "She also said she was going to take me to court.

"I was stunned – and a little bit scared too – because she was growling and yelling at me like a crazy lady. She's got a real anger management problem and needs help.

"But I stood my ground and asked her to leave my store."

Melanie was so shaken up by the incident she filed a police report the following day.

Officer Thomas Hankins of the Tishomingo Police Department confirmed that there is an ongoing investigation into the matter.

"It has been very difficult to set up a time to speak with [Lambert] because of scheduling conflicts," he told The ENQUIRER.

Meanwhile, Melanie claims that most of the town's residents "don't like Miranda," but keep their mouths shut "to keep the peace."

"I'm tired of it," said Melanie, "and I decided to speak out."

Another resident of the town, who spoke to The ENQUIRER anonymously due to a fear of retaliation from the singer, added: "We're a small community, about 3,500 people, so we all support one another and want to live peacefully.

"But Miranda moved in here about four years ago like a freakin' tornado. She is just a big bully who's using her celebrity to get her way about everything. And so far, it's worked. Although no one will say it publicly, we're all so happy somebody finally stood up to her."

A Life Without 'Belly Fat'

How One Woman Overcomes Tragedy and Creates the Life She's Always Wanted – By Tiffany Strobel*

Mindy DeForest's wake-up call about her weight problem was heartbreaking and profound: her sister died of colon cancer. "My sister was overweight, and I knew that being overweight myself put me more at risk for all sorts of health issues," she says. "I knew something had to change."

At 208 pounds, Mindy was the heaviest she'd ever been. Even having children hadn't caused her to gain so much weight, but the stress of caring for and eventually losing her sister, as well as being in an unhappy marriage, had caused her weight to balloon. "I'm a total stress eater," she says. "I kept turning to food for emotional reasons, and I was really putting on weight."

Like most people, Mindy had tried dieting in the past. Over the course of ten years she tried Weight Watchers, Body for Life, ephedra... pretty much everything. But unfortunately, nothing was working for her.

Mindy decided to try losing weight one more time, so she began working with a personal trainer. It didn't take long before her trainer realized that a big part of her weight-gain issues revolved around stress eating, so he recommended she try a product called Relacore®.

"He told me it was a 'belly fat' pill that could help me feel less stressed, give me energy, and improve my mood," Mindy says. She admits she was pessimistic after having tried so many products that hadn't worked in the past, but says, "My trainer really believed in it, so I agreed to give it a try."

It didn't take long before Mindy was convinced of Relacore's effectiveness. "I really noticed a difference in my mood. I was in the process of getting divorced and was worried I'd suffer from depression, but Relacore made a huge difference for me. I never felt down. I stopped my 'nervous' eating. And I could really tell from my mood when I missed a day, so I knew it was doing something for me."

Before long, the inches started dropping off, and Mindy's entire life began to change. "My self-esteem went through the roof. I started getting job offers, and I felt like for the first time in years, people were paying attention to me. When I was overweight it was like I just blended into the background, but then I started getting thin and all of a sudden people were noticing me." But then Mindy hit the dreaded "weight-loss plateau" and almost gave up on ever reaching her goal...

"When I was overweight it was like I just blended into the background, but then I started getting thin and all of a sudden people were noticing me."

until her trainer recommended a second product: Zantrex®-3 High Energy Fat Burner. "He told me it could help me get past my plateau and start losing again," Mindy says, "and I'd had so much success with Relacore that I didn't hesitate to try it."

Mindy added Zantrex to her Relacore/diet and exercise regimen, and it gave her the extra boost she needed to blow through her plateau and start dropping even more weight.

"With help from Relacore and Zantrex, I've lost 55 pounds, and I'm still going. I haven't been this thin since my twenties. I just bought a new skirt, and when I was trying it on it felt so amazing to keep telling the store clerk to bring me a smaller size. I ended up buying a size 2. It was awesome. I couldn't believe it."

But for Mindy, the greatest accomplishment isn't being able to fit into a size 2. "It's knowing that I really had the power to change my life. When I was overweight, I was miserable. But now everyone around me can see the difference losing weight has made not just in my physical appearance, but in everything. I have energy, I'm positive, I'm outgoing. My whole outlook on life has changed. I'm just so happy."

Heard about "Combo-Pilling"?

The highly controversial practice of Combo-Pilling is truly an underground phenomenon. Odds are, if you know someone who's losing lots of weight, and losing it fast, you probably know someone who's Combo-Pilling... like Mindy D. Why? Because it allows people to attack multiple facets of weight loss – like dropping fat, overcoming stress eating, and having enough energy to work out – all at the same time. According to the Internet, the most popular Combo-Pilling duo is Zantrex and Relacore. You can find them both at Wal•Mart, Walgreens, Rite-Aid, CVS, and GNC, or order them separately from Zantrex-3 at Zantrex3.com (1-800-897-9973) Relacore at Relacore.com (1-800-756-7907) or at TryComboPilling.com.

BROKEN HEART SENT POPE INTO PRIESTHOOD

UNTOLD STORY OF FRANCIS!

JORGE MARIO BERGOGLIO – now known as Pope Francis – made history on March 13 when he became the first Latin American to lead the Roman Catholic Church.

Here are 10 other fascinating facts about the new pontiff:

✝ Francis once proposed to his childhood sweetheart, Amalia Damonte, when they were 12, saying if she turned him down, he'd have to become a priest! "Luckily for him, I said no," she explained.

✝ He became an avid swimmer after losing part of his right lung due to contracting tuberculosis when he was a teenager.

✝ A huge soccer fan, he's a dedicated supporter of an Argentinian team called San Lorenzo de Almagro, named after a saint, of course! In fact, after he was declared the new pope, the club tweeted a photo of him holding up the team's flag.

Pope Francis' sister, Maria

✝ He can do a mean tango! Before finding his calling in the church, he and his friends enjoyed going out dancing.

✝ In addition to his native Spanish, he speaks Italian and German.

✝ His father, Mario Jose Bergoglio, was an Italian immigrant railway worker; his mother, Regina Maria Sivori, was a housewife. He is the oldest of five siblings.

✝ He has washed and kissed the feet of AIDS patients in a hospice and has criticized priests who refuse to baptize babies born to single mothers.

✝ He has degrees in chemistry and philosophy and taught at the Colegio del Salvador in Buenos Aires.

✝ His sister Maria Elena Bergoglio didn't want him to be pope, telling reporters after she learned the news: "I prayed he wouldn't be chosen."

✝ Unlike many in the Catholic Church hierarchy, he has said that condoms are "permissible" to prevent the spread of disease.

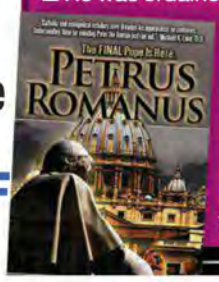
Hidden signs he may be the LAST PONTIFF EVER

WILL Pope Francis' reign be the last papacy in the Catholic Church?

That's the stunning assertion of author Cris Putnam, who co-wrote the recently published book "Petrus Romanus: The Final Pope Is Here" (far right).

According to the book, Francis is the fulfillment of an ancient prophecy foretelling the end of papal succession – and it involves a secret code and the unlucky number "13," which represents rebellion and destruction. Coincidence, or something more sinister? You be the judge!



- He was ordained as a priest on Dec. 13, 1969.
- He was elected pope on 3-13-13 at 8:13 p.m.
- He is 76 years old (7+6=13)
- White smoke rose from the Vatican chimney at 7:06 p.m.

"Taking all this into consideration," said Putnam, "it seems as though Pope Francis was always predestined to be the final pope."

Marie Osmond's husband WALKS OUT!

He's scared singer's bombshell tell-all WILL EXPOSE DIRTY LITTLE SECRETS

Marie was in a panic, says a source

First and current husband Stephen

MARIE OSMOND's furious husband walked out on her in an explosive fit of rage after learning she was planning to dish all the sordid details about her abusive second marriage in her new tell-all.

Sources say Stephen Craig – Marie's first husband, whom she remarried in 2011 – blew up at the showbiz dynamo and is now demanding that she keep private the tawdry information about her troubled relationship with second hubby Brian Blosil.

THE KEY IS LOVE
MY MOTHER'S WISDOM, A DAUGHTER'S GRATITUDE

"STEVE LEFT MARIE," a source close to the family told The ENQUIRER. "He told her, 'I'm sick and tired of hearing about Brian and all your problems. We had an agreement that you weren't going to air your dirty laundry in public about your divorce.'

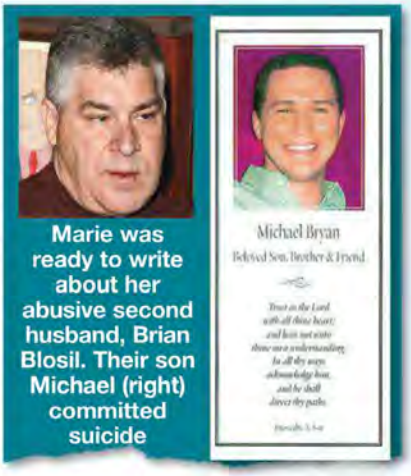
"The argument escalated and the next thing Marie knew, Steve stormed out!

"Marie was devastated. She really believed her marriage was over. Steve came back a couple of days later, but he's still angry. Whether or not their marriage will survive is a day-to-day question."

Marie's new book, "The Key Is Love – My Mother's Wisdom, A Daughter's Gratitude," is scheduled for release in early April. According to the source, it was supposed to contain shocking revelations about the horrors Marie endured in her second marriage.

Marie, 53, wed Brian in 1986, a year after her first union to Stephen ended. Already the mother of a son with Stephen, Marie and Brian had two more children and adopted five. The marriage fell apart in 2007, and Marie remarried Stephen in 2011 while she was still dealing with the pain of her adopted son Michael's tragic suicide.

"Marie has never gotten over the death of Michael or the abusive relationship and bitter divorce that Brian put her through, but Steve is just sick to death of hearing about it," the source said. "He wants a new life, THEIR life together, and to put the past behind them. But Marie just keeps dragging it up.



Marie was ready to write about her abusive second husband, Brian Blosil. Their son Michael (right) committed suicide

"SHE BLEW UP WHEN STEVE TOLD her, 'This book makes you just as bad as Brian. Putting all your private business out in public is a huge mistake because you don't know how Brian might respond. He could sue us for everything we have.'"

Stephen took off after the ensuing fight, leaving Marie in a panic.

"She was convinced that Steve had split for good," added the source. "When he finally came home, they kissed and made up, but it didn't last.

"The fights started again almost immediately. It's all too much for Steve – and it's anyone's guess what will happen next."

BEN AFFLECK and his wife Jennifer Garner are said to be locked in a bitter battle over whether to have another baby – and The ENQUIRER has the shocking photo of their fight exploding in public!

According to a source close to the couple, Jennifer, 40, says her hands are full with their three little ones, but Ben is determined to add to their brood in hopes of having another boy.

"He knows that Jen's time is running out, and if they don't act now she might have regrets someday," explained the source.

But Jennifer – who's done only two movies in the past few years, "The Odd Life of Timothy Green" and "Dallas Buyers Club" – is anxious to get back to work.

AS HER CAREER STALLS, HER husband is being swamped with offers to act and direct since his movie "Argo" won the Best Picture Oscar.

The Hollywood power couple came to a stand-off over whether to grow their family, said the source. But the lingering resentment could be heard in the hunk's Academy Award acceptance speech, when he talked about how much work it took to keep his marriage going.

"I want to thank my wife, I want to thank you for working on our marriage for ten Christmases," said Ben. "...It is work, but it's the best kind of work, and there's no one I'd rather work with."

Jennifer smiled for the cameras but then pulled her head back and grimaced.

Later, during a post-Oscar party at the Sunset Tower Hotel, the clash seemed to turn ugly.

"Jen grabbed Ben's arm and read him the riot act," said the source.

"She hissed, 'What do you mean, our marriage is work?'"

And when an interviewer asked about his remarks, Ben dug himself an even deeper hole.

"We work on (our marriage) together," he said. "We try our best, nobody's perfect...She's as committed as I am...We have three great kids."

The two are doting parents to daughters Violet, 7, Seraphina, 4, and son Samuel, 1, but their family happiness has been repeatedly threatened.

The ENQUIRER reported in 2010 that the then 5-year-old marriage was hanging by a thread as the pair led increasingly separate lives, according to friends.

The two stars drifted apart as busy Ben threw himself into acting and directing stints, and Jennifer struggled to juggle motherhood with her career.

What's more, Ben – a recovering alcoholic who spent part of 2001 in rehab – renewed fears in early 2010 when he was seen drinking again.

AND NOT LONG AGO, RUMORS FLEW that the 40-year-old actor cheated with actress Blake Lively while they worked together on a film.

"(Blake) is fabulous as you can see, she's a gorgeous young woman," Ben gushed to Anderson Cooper. "She was in 'The Town' with me and she was fabulous."

Confided an insider: "Jen didn't appreciate that remark. It was like rubbing salt into the wound. Now the couple's baby battle could be the straw that finally breaks the camel's back." by MICHAEL GLYNN

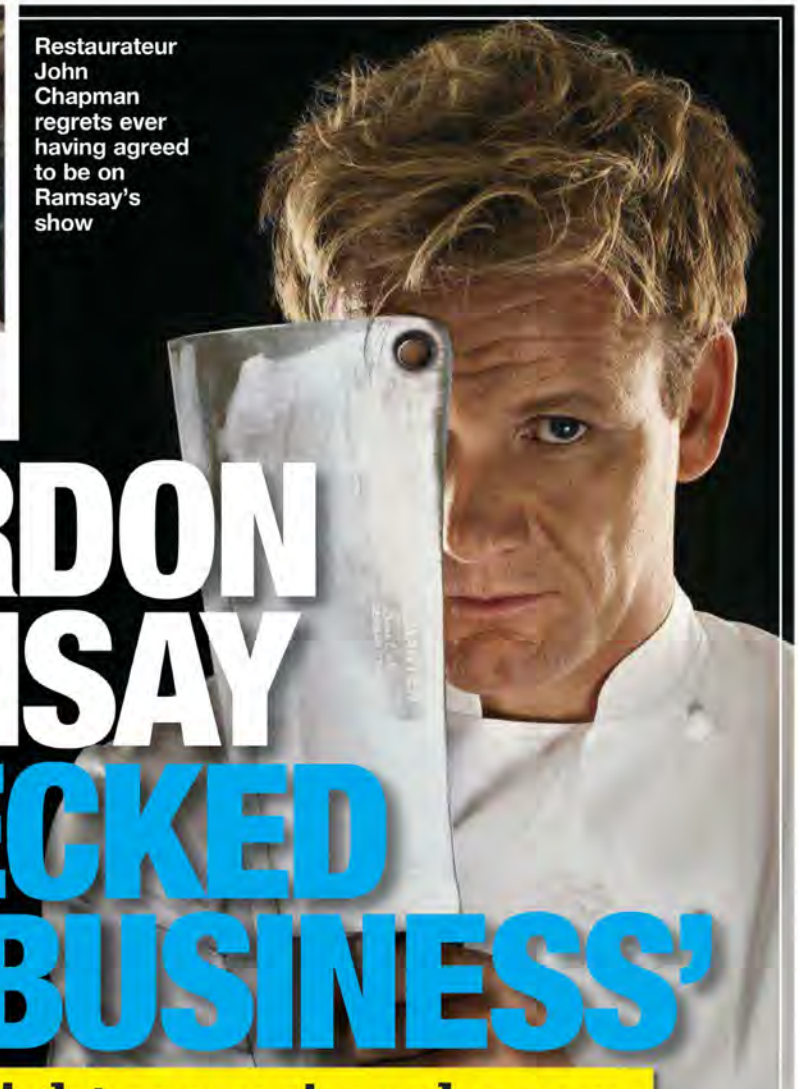
ENQUIRER INTERVIEW



Restaurateur John Chapman regrets ever having agreed to be on Ramsay's show

'GORDON RAMSAY WRECKED MY BUSINESS'

'Kitchen Nightmares' makeover WAS DISASTER for restaurant boss

CELEBRITY chef Gordon Ramsay dumped a real "Kitchen Nightmare" on a Nashville restaurant owner – and nearly wrecked his business!

Chappy's, a New Orleans-style Cajun restaurant, has been a fixture on Music City's Church Street for six years. But when Ramsay overhauled the menu and the decor, customers defected in droves and sent Chappy's swirling down the culinary drain.

"It was truly a kitchen nightmare for me," the eatery's owner, John "Chappy" Chapman, told The ENQUIRER. "Gordon Ramsay destroyed my business!"

The bombastic Brit invaded Chappy's for a week of filming the FOX program last December, and "it was a confrontation from the get-go," Chapman told The ENQUIRER. "Ramsay hated everything. His designers completely redid the decor, and after he tried five or six of my dishes, Ramsay said they were all horrible."

EVEN THOUGH PATRONS LOVED THE authentic Creole dishes like seafood gumbo and jambalaya on Chappy's extensive menu, Ramsay chopped the bill of fare to just 20 bland items, such as cheeseburgers, hush puppies and fried chicken. The hard-charging TV chef also changed Chappy's colorful interior design to muted beiges and grays, and installed uncomfortable church pew benches.

As for the new menu, "my customers hated it," Chapman told The ENQUIRER. "People would get up and walk out as soon as they saw it. They loved the gumbos and fish, shrimp and oysters. They weren't coming in for hamburgers – that's for sure."

One disgruntled regular said: "The new furnishings and country fare has turned a fun restaurant into a funeral parlor. The life is gone!"

From serving 200 patrons a night, Chappy's business sagged to a single table at best, Chapman said. After a month of struggling to make it with Ramsay's approach, Chapman switched back to his old menu, and business started picking up immediately.

"They kept telling me to wait for the show to air, but if I did that, I'd be gone," said Chapman, who opened Chappy's in 2006 after moving from Long Beach, Miss., following Hurricane Katrina. "I plan to redo the decor back to the original as soon as I can get the money together."

Chapman was paid a total of $7,500 to be on the show and cover his expenses for the days Chappy's was closed. But now Chapman says that he wishes he'd never agreed to be on the show.

"Ramsay's scouts come in with a lot of promises, saying you'll be on national television and business is going to boom," he groused.

"But that never happened. Instead, Gordon Ramsay killed my business."

And when the Chappy's segment airs on "Kitchen Nightmares" in April, Chapman said: "We'll have a viewing party and throw rotten apples at it."

ALEC BALDWIN ON MODEL BEHAVIOR

Hothead stays calm despite fury over daughter's career decision

The actor wants Ireland to attend college

"30 ROCK" Emmy winner Alec Baldwin is steamed that his teenage daughter spurned his advice and chose a modeling career over college, sources say.

Statuesque Ireland Baldwin, 17, decided to follow in her mom Kim Basinger's footsteps, and recently inked deals with IMG Models and Two Management.

6-foot-2 Ireland is a ringer for mom Kim Basinger

"ALEC URGED IRELAND TO GO to college," a friend told The ENQUIRER. "He told her, 'You are genuine and beautiful, but you don't need to get paid for that.' He believes Ireland is beyond smart and should have pursued academics before a modeling career.

"Unfortunately for Alec, Kim has Ireland's ear much more than he does."

A source added: "All Alec can do now is hope that Ireland gets sick of the modeling world quickly and moves on with her education."

Baldwin, 54, made headlines when he called Ireland, then 11, "a rude, thoughtless little pig" during a 2007 phone call. At the time, he and Basinger, who divorced in 2002, were in the middle of a bitter custody war. Father and daughter have since patched up their relationship, and Baldwin's second wife, yoga instructor Hilaria Thomas, is expecting a girl this summer.

Meanwhile, pals predict that 6-foot-2 Ireland – who's the spitting image of her glamorous 59-year-old Oscar-winning mother – seems destined for a top modeling career.

"EVERYONE IN THE MODELING business believes Ireland is going to be a very hot property in a very short time," said the friend. "She has the looks, the attitude and the poise to become a supermodel."

MICHAEL DOUGLAS' GAY C

Skip E. Lowe

BEST FRIEND TELLS ALL

Catherine Zeta-Jones

- Bombshell he's been hiding from Catherine
- Cheating superstar's GUILT & REGRETS
- SECRET behind his Liberace movie role

IN a bombshell world exclusive, The ENQUIRER can reveal that Michael Douglas is hiding a shocking gay secret from his wife Catherine Zeta-Jones and millions of fans!

The 68-year-old actor is consumed with guilt over his gay half brother Eric, who was brutalized for years by their father Kirk and shunned by Michael because neither star could deal with his sexuality, say insiders.

"Michael blames himself for not being there for Eric," said a source. "But he didn't have the time. He was too busy with his career and marriage – and he's regretted it ever since."

ERIC LED A TROUBLED LIFE AND DIED OF a drug overdose in 2004 at age 46. The source says the guilt Michael felt gnawed at him through the years, and that's what drove the macho actor to take the role of flamboyant gay showman Liberace in the highly touted HBO movie "Behind the Candelabra."

His sympathetic portrayal of the pianist, who died of AIDS in 1987, is his personal tribute to Eric.

"Michael is haunted by his brother's death, always asking himself, 'How could I have saved him?'" said the source. "That's why he took the part of Liberace. He did it for Eric. It's his way of making amends."

For years, Michael kept his guilt a secret, even from his actress wife Catherine, said the close source.

"Despite what Catherine may know about the Liberace movie project, Michael has kept hidden from her the true depths of despair he's bottled up about his agony over Eric," said a close source. "She has no idea how tortured Michael still is over what Eric endured.

"Michael has never been willing to share this gay secret with Catherine. As a Douglas,

Michael blame himself for not supporting Eric more before he died in 2004

CATHERINE & MICHAEL'S MARRIAGE BLUES

MICHAEL DOUGLAS and Catherine Zeta-Jones tried to heal their troubled marriage with a brief golf getaway – but eyewitnesses say they looked miserable.

In The ENQUIRER's March 4 issue, we revealed exclusively that Michael had moved out of the couple's palatial home in a trial separation last summer, but the stars were hoping to solve their problems.

In mid-March, they chose a romantic seaside setting – the ultra-exclusive Cloister resort on Sea Island, Ga. – to recharge their 12-year union. But even several days in the sun didn't seem to help.

"Michael and Catherine spent much of their time bickering,

Couple 'bickering & fighting' on getaway break and when they weren't fighting they acted like complete strangers," an observer told The ENQUIRER.

"THEY DINED AT THE RESORT'S OAK ROOM, GEORGIAN ROOM and Colt & Alison restaurants, and barely spoke two words to each other. There were absolutely no displays of affection or physical contact.

"When they were spotted walking through the resort or out on the golf course, Catherine always kept several steps behind Michael with her head hung low. They both looked ve sad.

"Their body language speaks volumes about their marriage he's always kept the stiff upper lip and the family has never been good about admitting emotional weaknesses. She'll be shocked when she finds out the extent of his grief."

As The ENQUIRER recently reported, Michael and Catherine have been having marital problems that prompted them to live apart for a while last summer.

Meanwhile, a close family insider told The ENQUIRER: "We all knew that Eric was gay from an early age because his behavior was very effeminate. Other kids picked on him, but he also baited people – particularly his dad Kirk, who he knew was ashamed of him.

"Kirk tried to 'beat the gayness' out of him. I'd hear Eric's screams through the window, and I once walked inside and saw Kirk hitting Eric at the top of the stairs. We all knew what was going on, and I know Michael felt real bad about it. Along with other members of his family, he felt they didn't do enough to help Eric."

Kirk Douglas and wife Anne

ERIC OPENED UP ABOUT HIS TORTURED PAST in a shocking 2003 interview just nine months before his death. The aspiring actor, whose mother Anne is Kirk's second wife, talked about how his dad used to beat him, and he said that both Kirk and Michael turned their backs on him when he needed a career boost.

Adding insult to injury, when Eric was just 12 years old, Kirk shipped him off to an expensive mental-health center, The Institute of Living in Hartford, Conn. – where Eric said he was raped by two other boys.

Feeling abandoned by his family, Eric's life quickly fell apart, plunging him into the world of drugs and booze. He tried killing himself at least three times before his fatal overdose.

"I prevented him from committing suicide twice," his best friend Skip E. Lowe told The ENQUIRER in an exclusive interview.

"Eric never discussed men with his family. He was very lonely and couldn't come to terms with being gay in a family that was always so macho.

"Eric was the black sheep of the family and a deeply troubled man."

Michael and other family members eventually tried to help Eric by offering financial support and paying for rehab stays, but it was too little, too late.

"I am so misunderstood by my father and brother – all they want to do is send me to rehab," Eric told The ENQUIRER in 2001. "There is absolutely no way I can talk to them about being gay."

One expert believes that Michael was deeply affected by his brother's heartbreaking problems.

"Seeing his father beat his brother for being gay had to have a profound and traumatic effect on Michael, and probably made him question his own sexuality," said Emmy-winning "Media Psychiatrist" and author Dr. Carole Lieberman.

"The trauma he witnessed as a child might have been the reason he acted out in his first marriage by being unfaithful to his wife (Diandra). He was even declared a sex addict and had to go to rehab for his addiction in 1992."

Dr. Lieberman believes that Michael achieved two goals by taking on the Liberace role: "Playing a sympathetic gay character in a positive way instead of a negative one is a way to rebel against what his dad did to his brother, and to stand up for Eric as well."

Ask the Vet

WITH DR. JEFF LACROIX

Owning a pet can be a rewarding – but often puzzling – experience. ENQUIRER columnist, top veterinarian Dr. Jeff LaCroix, answers the toughest questions about your four-legged friends.

SHOULD WE GET OUR DAUGHTER A HORSE?

Q. Our 14-year-old daughter wants a horse. We don't live in an area where horses are allowed, but there is a boarding stable about 20 minutes away. What are the pluses and minuses of owning a horse?

A. Be aware that a horse will be expensive – and not just to buy. Along with boarding costs, there will be veterinary fees for routine care as well as treatment for illness or injury. There will also be farrier fees for hoof trimming and shoeing every six to eight weeks. You'll need to make sure the boarding facility is safe and clean. Stalls should be free of manure and be well-bedded and have no split boards with nails or bolts exposed. Owning a horse is a commitment that should not be taken lightly. Keep in mind that for some kids, horses become a life-long love. However, for most it will be a passing interest. Be sure you have a plan if the latter occurs.

Owning a horse is a big commitment

HOW CAN WE DIAGNOSE OUR CAT'S ALLERGIES?

Q. Our vet suspects our cat's chronic skin problems may be due to a food allergy. She wants to put him on a nonallergenic diet. What is a nonallergenic diet if we don't know what he is allergic to?

A. The only way to prove that a skin problem is due to a food allergy is with a feeding trial. Two different types of diets could help you. One is a "novel protein," which uses meat your cat has never eaten before, such as venison, duck, rabbit and even kangaroo. The second type is a "hydrolyzed protein" diet, in which protein molecules are broken down so small they are not detected by the immune system. With both diets, the cat must be fed this food exclusively for at least six to eight weeks. If the problem goes away with the diet change, it can be assumed to be due to a food allergy. In that case, the diet can be continued or foods can be added, one at a time, to see which provokes an allergic response and is therefore to be avoided. If signs persist, then it probably isn't a food allergy. It could be a contact or inhaled allergy or even a nonallergic condition, such as an infection or parasite.

Chelsea Clinton ADOPTING AF BABY!

Former first daughter's DRAMATIC DECISION after pregnancy heartache

BIGHEARTED Chelsea Clinton plans to adopt a baby from Africa, The ENQUIRER has learned exclusively.

The former first daughter, 33, decided on the surprising maternity plan after watching both parents battle potentially deadly health problems while she's struggled to get pregnant, insiders say.

"After years of worrying that she'd lose her dad Bill to a heart attack, Chelsea flipped out when her mom Hillary was hospitalized with a blood clot near her brain," a close friend told The ENQUIRER.

"The clot was successfully treated and Hillary is out of the woods, but the incident made Chelsea realize that life can turn on a dime."

Chelsea and Marc have been trying to have a baby, especially since her mom Hillary suffered a blood clot near her brain, and her dad Bill had heart surgery

MEANWHILE, HER FATHER – WHO had emergency quadruple bypass surgery in September 2004 and had two stents inserted in a clogged heart artery in February 2010 – has confessed that he longs for grandchildren.

"I'm determined to live to be a grandfather," the 66-year-old politician admitted in a candid TV interview last October. "But I just think the older you get, the more you want every year to count."

Since that interview, "Chelsea has been more determined than ever to give her parents a grandchild as soon as possible – and adopting an African baby is her new maternity plan," said the source.

"Besides that, her parents will be over the moon. In light of the family's humanitarian values, nothing could be more rewarding than for Chelsea to give a needy baby a forever home."

Chelsea wed hedge fund executive Marc Mezvinsky, 35, on July 31, 2010, and while sources say they've been trying the "old-fashioned way," she hasn't been able to get pregnant.

As The ENQUIRER recently reported, Chelsea decided to undergo in vitro fertilization treatments, but sources say a recent trip to Africa led to the adoption decision.

Chelsea, who is involved with her father's Clinton Foundation and Clinton Global Initiative, made a humanitarian trip to Africa with him in 2012.

She visited children at the Butaro Hospital in northern Rwanda, and was also touched by the deaths of children in the Nigerian capital of Abuja, telling a reporter: "It is unconscionable that in the 21st century, children still die of diarrhea."

CHELSEA, WHO WORKS AS A special correspondent for NBC, has also embraced her family's relationship with the African-American community.

Her father was considered one of America's most popular chief executives with black voters, with novelist Toni Morrison dubbing him "the first black president."

After leaving the White House in 2001, Clinton chose to locate his new office in Harlem, N.Y., the unofficial capital of black America, sending a clear signal to the community that he'd continue to fight for them.

"Chelsea has a heart of gold, and recently everything – from her parents' health crises, to her and Marc's inability to conceive and her family's special devotion to the black community – came together in her mind," said the source.

"She realized that adopting an African child would be a good idea if she couldn't get pregnant."

And as the daughter of a former president and former secretary of state, "she can cut some corners when it comes to the red tape of the adoption process," said the source.

"For now, Chelsea is doing everything she can to jump-start the adoption process. It's possible a child could be selected in the next few months."

With an eye to starting a family, Chelsea and her husband have also reportedly started the process of buying a new $10.5 million apartment in Manhattan.

The 5,000-square-foot residence has four bedrooms, six and a half baths, oak floors, Italian marble bathrooms and private elevator access.

"It's right across the street from Madison Square Park, and there's no question that one of those bedrooms will be a nursery for Chelsea and Marc's adopted baby," said the source. "And when her father visits, he'll be trailed by Secret Service agents – so there will always be plenty of helping hands when it comes to changing diapers!"

Charlize Theron and Angelina Jolie both adopted African babies

She's following Hollywood stars

WHEN Chelsea Clinton brings home her adopted African baby, she'll have lots of company – a support group of top Hollywood moms.

In 2006, Madonna made headlines by adopting a son, David, from the African country of Malawi. His mother had died shortly after giving birth. The singer, 54, was so thrilled, she then adopted a little girl from the same country after the child's mom tragically died.

She said she decided to adopt "after learning there were one million orphans in Malawi."

In 2005, Angelina Jolie, now 37, found her bundle of joy in Ethiopia – little cutie Zahara. The infant girl's mom was unable to care for her, but said she was "very fortunate" to be going to such a good home. Brad Pitt filed to legally adopt her later that year.

"Weeds" star Mary-Louise Parker, 48, wanted to rescue a child from Vietnam, but ended up getting her daughter Caroline from Ethiopia in 2007.

"It's not like I only wanted to enlarge my family," she said. "I really wanted to give a child a home."

And last year, 37-year-old screen beauty Charlize Theron adopted her adorable son Jackson, who was born in her native country, South Africa.

O.J. BANS DAUGHTER FROM PRISON VISITS

Caged star can't stand seeing Sydney, 27, anymore

DISGRACED gridiron great O.J. Simpson has basically banned his daughter Sydney from visiting him in prison after she gushed about life on the outside, sources say.

Now 65, "The Juice" has spent four years behind bars in Nevada, and he flipped out when Sydney, 27, surprised him with a visit earlier this year, The ENQUIRER has learned.

"Sydney tries to be strong for her dad, but when she saw him looking so worn out, she broke down in tears," a family insider told The ENQUIRER.

A prison photo of the former gridiron great

AND THAT DIDN'T SIT well with O.J., who's developed a way to make his time in jail bearable, the insider added.

"As long as he's locked into a prison routine, he can tolerate doing his time," explained the source. "But seeing Sydney and hearing talk of the 'real world' brings him back to the ugly truth that he's stuck behind bars, perhaps for a very long time."

Simpson is serving nine to 33 years for armed robbery and won't be eligible for parole until 2017. But he is also trying for a new trial and hopes to be out on bond within months.

At first, the source says O.J. was thrilled to catch up with Sydney, a college graduate who reportedly works for a catering company in Atlanta. But his temper soon flared.

"O.J. CAN DEAL WITH pals and business associates visiting, but when he sees someone he has an emotional connection to, he loses it," said the source.

"By the time their visit was over, O.J. ordered Sydney to stay away. And he told her to make the same thing clear to other family members. He doesn't want to think about life on the outside until he's free."

'BATMAN KILLER' TURNS MUSLIM

Fiend grows beard, prays to Allah five times a day

James Holmes changed his look from when he originally appeared in court (below)

"BATMAN Shooter" suspect James Holmes has grown a bushy new beard as a symbol of his newfound faith – Islam.

And The ENQUIRER has learned the accused murderer – now awaiting trial for a bloody shooting spree at an Aurora, Colo., movie theater last July – has turned to the religion in a twisted attempt to condone the horrific slaughter.

"Holmes has been scrambling to justify hurting all of those innocent people, and he's convinced that converting to Islam will ultimately be his saving grace," a prison source told The ENQUIRER. "He's gone off the deep end. He has brainwashed himself into believing he was on his own personal jihad and that his victims were infidels.

"Because Holmes is under lockdown and has nothing but time on his hands, he spends hours upon hours each day alone in a cell, reading and studying the Holy Qur'an."

He has also started performing the ritual Islamic "salat" prayer five times a day and is trying to follow a strict Islamic diet, the source added.

Holmes has been performing Islamic prayers behind bars, like these detainees at Guantanamo Bay

ON MARCH 12, A JUDGE IN Centennial, Colo., entered a "not guilty" plea for Holmes, who's facing 166 counts of first-degree murder and attempted murder in the July 20 massacre. The mass shooting, during a midnight showing of "The Dark Knight Rises," left 12 people dead and 58 wounded.

The source says other Muslim inmates at the Arapahoe County Detention Facility are furious that Holmes is trying to use their faith to validate his violent rampage.

"None of them condone forms of terrorism or extremism," noted the source. "And they don't want their religion to be connected to that awful shooting."

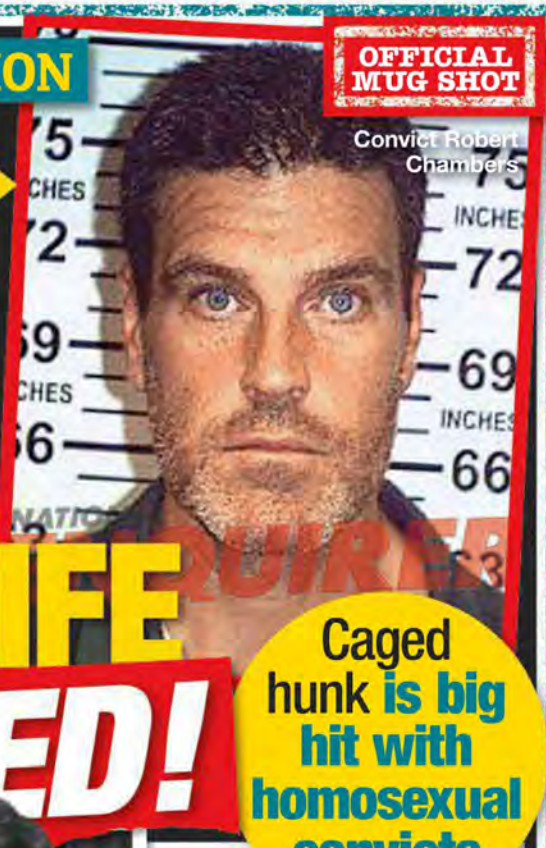
ENQUIRER INVESTIGATION

PREPPY KILLER'S TWISTED PRISON LIFE – EXPOSED!

Caged hunk is big hit with homosexual convicts

Jennifer Levin was murdered by Chambers



Convict Robert Chambers

NOTORIOUS "Preppy Killer" Robert Chambers is sporting a spiky brush cut, and sources say his hot new look has electrified gay inmates at his New York prison!

The ENQUIRER obtained the latest mug shot of the 46-year-old headline-making Chambers – who confessed to killing 18-year-old Jennifer Levin in New York's Central Park in 1986. It shows his new hairdo and a growth of beard flecked with gray.

Sources speculate the hunky blue-eyed thug – now serving 19 years on a separate drug charge – may decide to go gay because he's been dumped by his longtime girlfriend Shawn Kovell!

"ROBERT HAS PRISON GAYS swooning at his feet," said an insider at the Wende Correctional Facility in Alden, N.Y., where the 6-foot-5 Chambers is incarcerated. "Whenever he steps into the communal shower, eyes inevitably focus on him. At his height, Robert is hard to miss.

"And while he's always been somewhat of a peacock who enjoys strutting his stuff, Robert is really working it now, and he's totally receptive to the admiring glances, cat calls and whistles he gets."

Meanwhile, his relationship with Kovell, a privileged East Side New Yorker like Chambers, has ended, said the source.

They were longtime lovers, their relationship blossoming during Chambers trial for the Levin killing. She visited him every week during his time in jail for that crime but has now moved to Georgia.

'He's totally receptive to the admiring glances'

Chambers leaves court in 1987 (left). Here, he's with former girlfriend Shawn Kovell in 2005

"That's made Robert even more open to advances from gays giving him goo-goo eyes," the source said.

Chambers pleaded guilty to manslaughter in Levin's death, and served 15 years. During that time, he was cited repeatedly for drugs and weapons infractions, and once assaulted a corrections officer.

He was released in February 2003, but in October 2007 he was busted for selling drugs out of the Manhattan apartment that he shared with Kovell.

Chambers – who's reportedly battled addictions to booze, heroin and cocaine – pleaded guilty to that drug rap in August 2008, and was slapped with a 19-year sentence with no parole. He'll be behind bars until 2027.

While he tested positive for opiates in February 2010, Chambers has since been staying out of trouble, according to the source.

"Robert lives by himself in a single cell and focuses on his recycling job," says the source. "He's also been taking a course in sign language. He spends the rest of his time helping inmates with disabilities, and participating in a substance abuse treatment program."

While a New York State Department of Corrections spokesperson has told The ENQUIRER there are no reports of Chambers engaging in homosexual misconduct, sources say that with a long stretch behind bars in front of him, that could change.

"Robert appears to be trying to turn his life around, and part of that plan could mean him finding a prison partner to provide emotional support," said the source.

"With his release date so far off, coupled with no shortage of fawning admirers, he may decide to 'bat for the same team!'"

JOHNNY CARSON'S EX-WIFE TERRORIZED!

Frail Joanne, 81, TRAPPED IN ABUSIVE RELATIONSHIP – court papers allege

Joanne was married to the "Tonight" show icon for nine years

THE ailing 81-year-old ex-wife of late TV legend Johnny Carson claims she was sweet-talked into marrying a dope fiend – and now he's threatened to kill her!

Joanne Carson, whose nine-year marriage to the "Tonight" show icon ended in 1972 during the height of his career, suffers from multiple health problems and is confined to her home on a breathing apparatus.

> "She's afraid he won't stop until she's dead"

In court papers obtained exclusively by The ENQUIRER, she claims her hubby Richard Rever, 56, wants her dead so he can grab her loot. Joanne received $100,000 a year in alimony from Carson and turned that into an estimated $30 million fortune through wise investments.

"JOHNNY WOULD BE SPINNING in his grave if he knew about the nightmare poor Joanne is going through," said a close friend. "She raised his three boys from his first marriage and he loved her dearly."

Joanne has slapped Rever with a restraining order, claiming that he has a long history of drug abuse. And when she asked him to sign a postnuptial agreement on Feb. 13, she claims he disconnected her oxygen tube and she nearly suffocated.

When Joanne tossed Rever out of her $10 million Bel-Air mansion, she says he left with at least $50,000 worth of her personal memorabilia, and racked up $16,000 in charges on her American Express card. Then, she claims, Rever telephoned her and said: "You are dead meat!"

Rever's rep says Joanne's claims are not true, her restraining order was never served and that she leveled the allegations against him because she was "very upset" when he filed for divorce.

But her pal said: "Joanne is terrified of Richard. She's afraid that he's after her money, and he won't stop until she's dead!"

MURPHY SNUB ROCKS ARSENIO

OLD PALS FEUDING over new talk show

ARSENIO HALL's longtime friendship with Eddie Murphy exploded into a bitter feud after the comedy legend snubbed Arsenio's request to appear on the premiere of his new talk show!

Arsenio has been rounding up big-name guests for his return to late-night TV this fall, but when he approached Eddie, the former "Saturday Night Live" star told him NO WAY!

Astonishingly, their ugly confrontation comes just months after Arsenio did a big tribute to Eddie.

"He gushed about how much he respects Murphy as a friend, an amazing talent and a trailblazer for other comics," said an insider close to the funnymen. "Then Eddie says no to doing his opening night!"

Sources say Eddie, 51, put his foot down because he believes Arsenio has been capitalizing on their friendship for years and is just trying to use him for a quick ratings boost.

And Arsenio, 58, is miffed because he believes his former pal is envious of him jump-starting his career while Eddie's movies are fizzling at the box office.

THE TWO STARS APPEARED together in "Coming to America" (1988) and "Harlem Nights" (1989). Both times Eddie played the lead while Arsenio had a lesser role.

In both "Coming to America" (above) and "Harlem Nights," Eddie (left) played the lead while Arsenio had a lesser role

"There's always been a sense that Eddie was the star and Arsenio was riding his coattails," noted the source. "Now that Arsenio seems headed back on top, Eddie is jealous.

"He told Arsenio to get his show off the ground without him, and if it's a success he'll come on it early next year.

"But Arsenio told Eddie, 'If you can't come when you're invited, then you can't come at all.'"

ULTRASOUND REVEALS AUTISM RISK AT BIRTH

Low birth weight babies born with a certain type of brain abnormality are at greater risk for autism later in their lives, according to a new study.

Analyzing ultrasounds taken just after birth, Michigan State University researchers found that infants with enlarged ventricles – brain cavities that store spinal fluid – were seven times more likely to develop autism than those without the defect.

The research opens the door to early detection of this poorly understood disorder.

"What this study shows us is that an ultrasound scan within the first few days of life may already be able to detect brain abnormalities that indicate a higher risk of developing autism," says Tammy Movsas, clinical assistant professor of pediatrics at MSU.

Asthma med STOPS ITCH!

A once-a-month injection of a commonly used asthma medication helps people with an entirely different problem: itching.

The drug omalizumab treats chronic hives and severe rashes, and it works even when antihistamine therapy fails, according to American and European researchers.

In a promising study, the discomfort started clearing in many patients in just one week. After three months, more than half had total relief – and many of them remained hive- and itch-free.

When to QUESTION YOUR DOCTOR

Want to know if you need antibiotics to treat a sinus infection or if an MRI of your aching back is really necessary? A fascinating website can help with your decision.

Check out ChoosingWisely.org to learn about commonly prescribed tests and procedures that are often unnecessary – and might even cause harm.

The information, developed with input from top medical experts, is free and covers a wide range of topics. "Through these lists of tests and procedures, we hope to encourage conversations between physicians and patients about what care they truly need," says Dr. Christine K. Cassel, CEO of the ABIM Foundation, which has helped launch Choosing Wisely.

Banish PAINFUL SEX

There's a new drug for post-menopausal women who experience discomfort during intimacy.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has approved a once-a-day pill called Osphena (ospemifene) to treat dyspareunia, a condition that causes moderate to severe pain during intercourse. But experts say women should speak with their doctor about possible side effects associated with the drug.

"Dyspareunia is among the problems most frequently reported by post-menopausal women," says Dr. Victoria Kusiak of the FDA.

Amazing new FISH OIL BENEFIT

Taking omega-3 fish oil helps protect against skin cancer.

University of Manchester (UK) researchers discovered that taking a daily four-gram dose of omega-3 boosted the skin's resistance to the harmful effects of sunlight, including cancer.

The scientists concluded that the heart protective oil could "reduce the risk of skin cancer over an individual's lifetime."

CRYPTOGRAM QUOTES

FAMOUS QUOTES FROM YOUR FAVORITE PEOPLE

Cryptograms are coded messages. To solve the Cryptogram, each coded letter must be replaced by the answer letter in the box overhead. When you solve the code for a letter, write the answer letter in the box everywhere the coded letter appears. Look for common words and letter patterns to break the code. Words like AND, I, THE and A are found frequently. Common word endings are ING, S and E.

LEN FELDMAN'S BEST BETS ON TV

What's hot this week

Bones

Monday, April 1, 8 p.m. ET, FOX

TV court proves dangerous when the producer of the "Judge Trudy" show turns up dead in a bad neighborhood of Washington, D.C. Meanwhile, Brennan (Emily Deschanel) is upset to learn that her daughter, Christine, might be an "average" child when she's accused of biting a classmate. And Hodgins (T.J. Thyne) uses the Jeffersonian lab to chemically re-create Finn's (guest star Luke Kleintank) grandmother's special hot sauce, which they take to celebrity chef Susan Feniger (guest starring as herself) for an endorsement. Gina Hecht guest stars as Judge Trudy.

Hell's Kitchen

Tuesday, April 2, 8 p.m. ET, FOX

Tensions are boiling over tonight as the remaining chefs compete in the ultimate taste test. Chef Ramsay challenges the red and blue teams to identify the type of protein used in five dishes. The winners get a day at a mansion on Malibu Beach. The losers have to wake up early and bake bread from scratch to serve emergency medical workers at breakfast. Some are up to it, while others struggle with even the simplest dishes, causing Ramsay to rant at them during the emotional elimination round in this explosive all-new episode.

How to Live with Your Parents (For the Rest of Your Life) (New Show!)

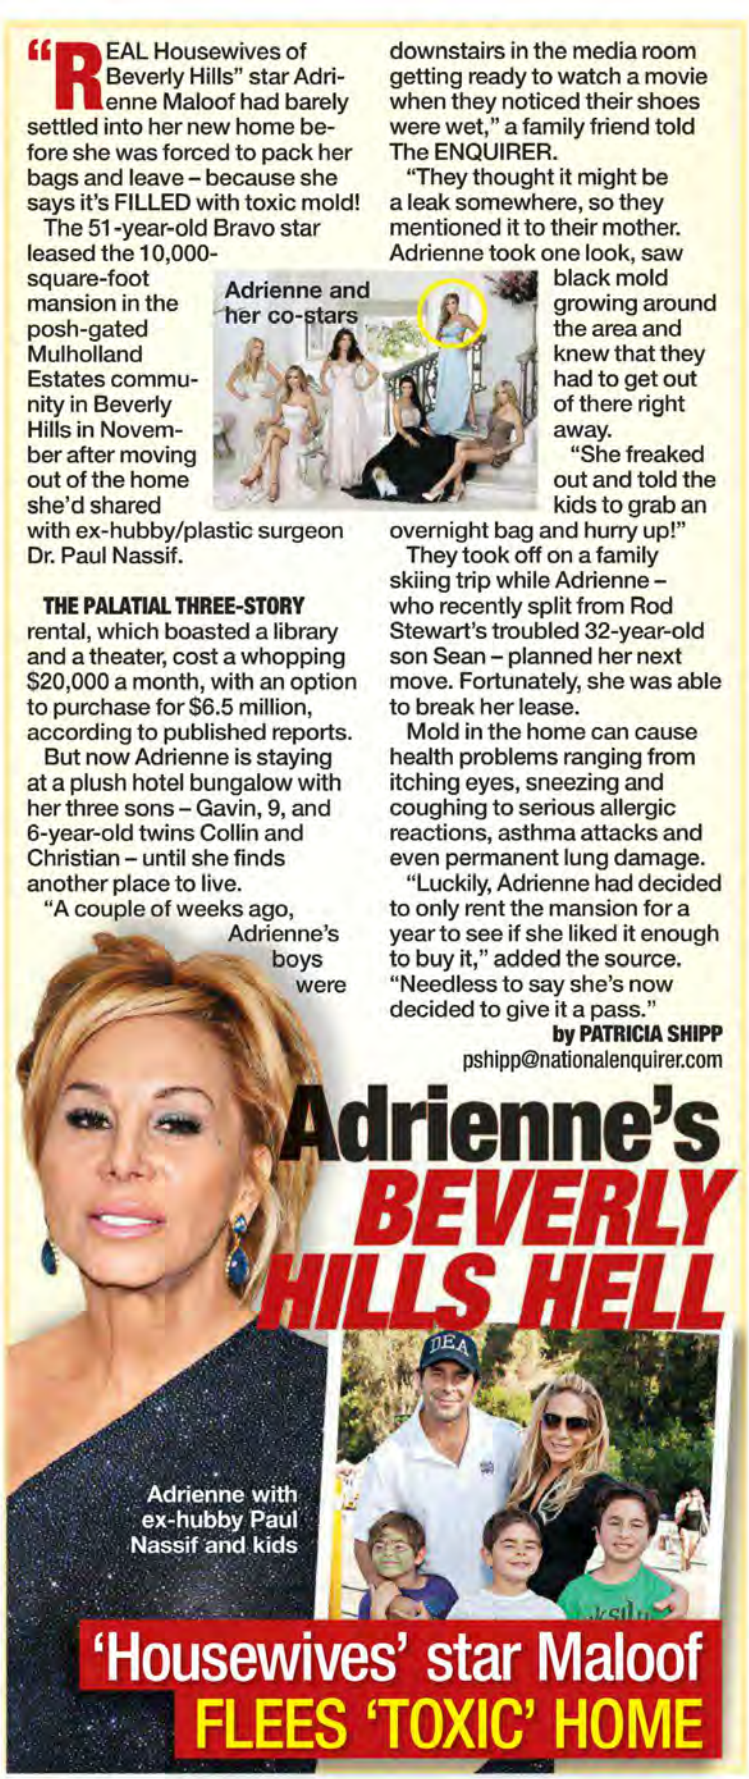
Wednesday, April 3, 9:30 p.m. ET, ABC

Moving back in with your parents has become something of a trend in this tough economy. When uptight and overprotective single mom Polly (Sarah Chalke) returns home with her daughter, Natalie (Rachel Eggleston), she's immediately worried that her sexually open, fun-loving parents, Elaine and Max (Elizabeth Perkins and Brad Garrett), who took a hands-off approach to parenting in the '70s, will contaminate Natalie's formative years with their "take life as it comes" attitude. Garrett and Perkins are the funniest, warmest, most freewheeling parents on television in this adorably dysfunctional family comedy. Jon Dore also stars.

Forever Young (New Show!)

Wednesday, April 3, 10 p.m. ET, TV Land

Can five 20-somethings and five 70-somethings live in one house without driving each other crazy? Tonight, the seniors and juniors compete in a generation-bridging game show and then team up for a road trip challenge. Can the seniors master a GPS system? And can the juniors read a paper map without trying to zoom in on it? Back home, the seniors learn the pleasures of beer pong. And the juniors learn the value of talking over texting in a dramatic and tearful group chat. Hilarious, emotionally powerful and full of wisdom from and for all ages, "Forever Young" is a fun, heartwarming and socially relevant series for the whole family.



"REAL Housewives of Beverly Hills" star Adrienne Maloof had barely settled into her new home before she was forced to pack her bags and leave – because she says it's FILLED with toxic mold!

The 51-year-old Bravo star leased the 10,000-square-foot mansion in the posh-gated Mulholland Estates community in Beverly Hills in November after moving out of the home she'd shared with ex-hubby/plastic surgeon Dr. Paul Nassif.

Adrienne and her co-stars

THE PALATIAL THREE-STORY rental, which boasted a library and a theater, cost a whopping $20,000 a month, with an option to purchase for $6.5 million, according to published reports.

But now Adrienne is staying at a plush hotel bungalow with her three sons – Gavin, 9, and 6-year-old twins Collin and Christian – until she finds another place to live.

"A couple of weeks ago, Adrienne's boys were downstairs in the media room getting ready to watch a movie when they noticed their shoes were wet," a family friend told The ENQUIRER.

"They thought it might be a leak somewhere, so they mentioned it to their mother. Adrienne took one look, saw black mold growing around the area and knew that they had to get out of there right away.

"She freaked out and told the kids to grab an overnight bag and hurry up!"

They took off on a family skiing trip while Adrienne – who recently split from Rod Stewart's troubled 32-year-old son Sean – planned her next move. Fortunately, she was able to break her lease.

Mold in the home can cause health problems ranging from itching eyes, sneezing and coughing to serious allergic reactions, asthma attacks and even permanent lung damage.

"Luckily, Adrienne had decided to only rent the mansion for a year to see if she liked it enough to buy it," added the source. "Needless to say she's now decided to give it a pass."

Reconsider Jennifer

Regarding "Brad's Drunken Rage Over Angie Sex Confession!" (Feb. 25): I have excellent advice for Brad. First, cut your hair, then the scruffy beard and mustache. Next, get rid of Angie, go back to Jennifer and have some kids. Why drink yourself to death over Angie?

– Janet N., Buffalo, N.Y.

Think about it, Jeff

Hey, Jeff Probst. How would you like it if you had kids of your own and they called someone else "Dad" (Who's Your Daddy?, March 4)? If the real father is living, he's Daddy. Let your stepkids call you by a name that is fondly between the three of you. They have only one Dad.

– Donna L., Lewisburg, Ohio

$50 Letter of the Week

Fond fast-food farewell

What a heartwarming story about Dave Kime Jr., who was sent off with his favorite fast food, a Burger King Whopper Jr. (Buried with a Burger!, Feb. 25). How nice that family and friends got into the spirit, remembering Mr. Kime as the man he was and acknowledging the things he loved.

HOW TO PLAY

You must fill in every empty square in the Sudoku grid. There's no right way of going about this, but there is only ever one solution. The big grid is split into nine mini-grids. There are nine rows running left to right and nine columns running down. In every row, you must have each of the numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9. These can be in any order. The same applies to columns and mini-grids: place every number 1 through 9 in each column and in each mini-grid.

Annette Funicello's LIVING HELL

The stricken actress is wheeled into a van by husband Glen Holt

- Ravaged by multiple sclerosis
- Separated from family by controlling hubby

TRAGEDY-plagued Annette Funicello is reeling from a heartbreaking new crisis – she's being isolated from her children and grandchildren by her controlling second husband, say sources.

The former "Mickey Mouse Club" star, 70, is virtually cut off from her loved ones by her devoted caregiver hubby Glen Holt, 82, who relocated the couple from Los Angeles to rural Bakersfield after their house burned to the ground in March 2011.

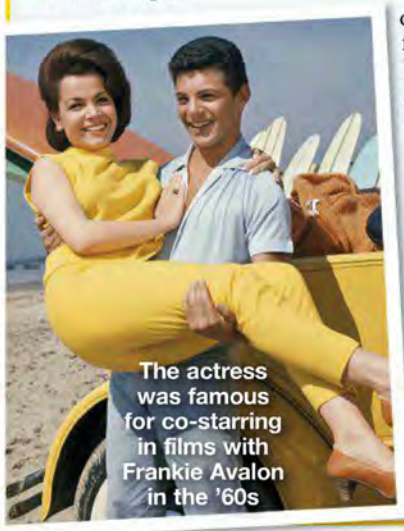
Nearly 30 years ago, "Annie" – as she is called by her family – was diagnosed with chronic, progressive multiple sclerosis. Today, the '60s Hollywood princess, who is famous for her films with Frankie Avalon, is wheelchair-bound and cannot speak, move or even swallow as a result of the ravaging disease.

"ANNIE'S BEEN AN MS PRISONER for years, and now her loved ones can't see her because she lives so far away," an insider told The ENQUIRER.

Two of her three children by first husband Jack Gilardi – as well as her grandkids – live in Los Angeles, approximately 120 miles from her new Bakersfield home.

"It's terribly sad," said the insider. "I think the family feels like they've lost her all over again."

Annette and husband Glen in 1993, before her MS had progressed



The actress was famous for co-starring in films with Frankie Avalon in the '60s

Sources agree that Glen is a dedicated caretaker to his helpless wife, who is fed through a tube and communicates by blinking her eyes. But some also say he's isolated her from her kids as if he wants them out of their life.

"Annie and Glen live out in the sticks on a ranch," said the insider. "It's like she's being held captive.

"In my opinion, Glen has always resented that Annette and (her ex-husband) Jack maintain a great relationship because of the kids. They worked hard to keep the family bonded and were always together for holidays.

"Now Glen calls all the shots. He's not sharing her with the people who love her most."

HEART to HEART

Transplant patient falls in love WITH SISTER OF DONOR

IF home is where the heart is, then Erin Roberts has found her forever home.

She plans to marry a man who got a new lease on life after undergoing a transplant – and receiving her brother's heart.

"I feel my brother chose him for me...as a last gift," says Erin.

Her husband-to-be is Connor Rabinowitz, once a star catcher who dreamed of becoming a professional baseball player while growing up in Minneapolis, Minn.

But right before Thanksgiving 2004, when he was just 17, Connor got sick with what he thought was the flu. Instead, he was diagnosed with cardiomyopathy, a hereditary condition that enlarges and weakens the heart muscle.

"DOCTORS TOLD ME THAT IF I DIDN'T get a new heart, I would die," said Connor, now 25. "I was stunned. I couldn't believe it."

Connor spent three months in the hospital awaiting a transplant. To keep him alive, doctors installed a pump in his chest to do what his heart could not.

Meanwhile, in March 2005, Erin's healthy 22-year-old brother, Kellen, died after he fell and hit his head while visiting a friend in South Dakota.

Kellen had signed up to be an organ donor, and doctors used his pancreas, liver, kidneys, lungs, intestines and skin for transplants. His heart went to Connor.

THE HAPPY COUPLE: Erin feels her brother chose Connor for her

"It was both the best and worst day of my life," recalled Connor. "My life had been saved. But someone had to die in order for me to live."

After an exchange of letters, Connor flew to Seattle, Wash., in late 2006 to meet his heart donor's family.

When Connor hugged Kellen's mother Nancy, she placed her head on his chest to listen to her son's heart beating. "I looked over her shoulder and saw Erin standing across the room," recalled Connor. "Our eyes met and I went, wow, I want to be with her for the rest of my life."

> "I went, wow, I want to be with her for the rest of my life"

While Erin, then 25 and the mother of a young boy, felt a unique bond with Connor, it wasn't quite love at first sight for her.

The two visited a few more times and then drifted apart. But Connor couldn't forget Erin, and in 2010 he reached out to her through Facebook. Within a week, the two were meeting up in Seattle.

"It was like a switch from young guy to a man," she said. "I watched him grow up."

CONNOR, WHO HAS KELLEN'S NAME tattooed on his upper right arm, now lives in Seattle with Erin, 32. And when she really misses her brother, Erin puts her head on Connor's chest and listens to Kellen's heart beat inside him.

"It's like Kellen is still here," she said. "It's priceless to know that my brother lives on in the man I love."
